

2017 UPCYCLED ART CONTEST PENN STATE SHENANGO EARTH FEST

EARTH FEST

The Earth Fest Upcycled Art Contest has been designed to inspire elementary and middle school students to create treasure from “trash.” The process used to create these beautiful pieces of art will enable students to demonstrate their ability to reuse objects for a new purpose. The contest is open to students living within and around the Penn State Shenango community.

Students entering their art will be eligible to have their art displayed at the Penn State Shenango Earth Fest Art Gallery for public viewing on April 8, 2017.

Penn State Shenango's Earth Fest 2017 will be held on Saturday, April 8 from 11 am - 4 pm and includes live entertainment, activities for children and families, educational presentations, an artists' market, information from sustainable local businesses and organizations, and Penn State Berkey Creamery ice cream. Admission is free!

Contest Categories:

Small Group Project (Grades K-6): Students (2-6) will collaborate to create an art piece 2D (not to exceed 11” x 14”) or 3D (not to exceed 12” x 12” x 12”) and submit it as a group project.
