

Educational Technology and Online Learning Resources at PSU

by B. Pursel (pursel@psu.edu), Schreyer Institute for Teaching Excellence

This handout contains resources related to teaching with technology and online learning at Penn State.

Education Technology Services (ETS) – ETS offers a wide variety of services in the form of technology platforms, consultations and occasionally funding. Services include:

- Blogs @ PSU (<http://blogs.psu.edu>)
- Digital Media Commons (<http://mediacommons.psu.edu/>)
- ANGEL (<http://cms.psu.edu>)
- Educational Gaming Commons (<http://gaming.psu.edu>)
- Faculty Fellows (<http://ets.tlt.psu.edu/faculty-fellow-program/>)
- iTunes University (<https://itunes.psu.edu/>)

Teaching and Learning with Technology (TLT) - ETS is part of Teaching and Learning with Technology (TLT). TLT also provides many different services (<http://tlt.its.psu.edu/>) that include:

- Instructional/awareness videos (<http://tlt.its.psu.edu/about/video>)
- Technology Training, both face-to-face and online (<http://its.psu.edu/training/>)
- Weblion, which is a custom web development shop (<http://weblion.psu.edu/>)

College-level elearning and support units – several Colleges have units dedicated to assisting faculty with technology utilization and elearning efforts. These units include:

- Agricultural Sciences (<http://elearning.ag.psu.edu/>)
- Arts and Architecture (<https://elearning.psu.edu/elearning/>)
- Earth and Mineral Sciences (<https://www.e-education.psu.edu/>)
- Engineering (<http://www.engr.psu.edu/leonhardcenter/>)
- Information Sciences and Technology (<https://collab.ist.psu.edu/oidi/>)
- Smeal College of Business (<http://riit.smeal.psu.edu/>)

The World Campus – Penn State’s World Campus is the primary delivery mechanism for online learning at PSU. They also run faculty development workshops and assist faculty in online course development.
