After a brief exchange of slaps with white gloves, our heroes ready themselves to do battle. Although he's still a bit frustrated from tripping over Cardboardboxman and falling down the hole in the first place, Terribactyl feels confident about this fight... He'll just vent a little by beating up on a box on wheels with one arm. It won't be that much different from his usual cripple targets practice.
Little does he know, but this seemingly unimportant and easy fight will change the course of his life....*

You're all fucked now. With former light-beerweight champion Buster Drunkas puttin' on the gloves again, he's out to fuck shit up. Drunk and high 24/7, he's so messed up, he mistakes his own teammates as enemies and gets into fights with them.

Used as an assist character, call on him to risk a gigadrunk punch to your opposition or your own team.

I need to do a GIF. More people need to do GIFs, even though Bob Sagat set the standard up in the clouds somewhere.

"Bitch's jaws ain't strong enough. I almost choked on a bone."

I can see that, like when said monster is slain or ancient secret is revealed...I guess they would have more of a storytelling impact at such times.
