Reenacting UN Resolution 242 will promote peace because it requires the establishment of contact routes, which aid US security measures and prevent suicide bombings. UN Resolution 242 requires a US representative to establish and maintain a contact between Israel and Palestine because a contact offers intelligence towards future terrorist like events. Intelligence yields better coordination of security measures because security promotes Charter 1 of UN Resolution 242, the right to live in peace, by stopping suicide bombings and abuse of military force. US intervention in the peace talk between Israel and Palestine will not spark a war because the UN resolution suggests both States take major part in promoting peace while America oversees. The UN resolution is important because it gives the US a role in the Mid East peace effort.

The UN resolution should be reenacted by the US because the resolution outlines the steps towards America's involvement in promoting peace. An act of US intervention is outlined under the UN resolution because it requires a US General Secretary establish a contact between both states to enforce peace. A contact route between both parties will help the Mid East peace effort because the US Secretary will provide US with intelligence to help the peace effort.

Tensions between Israel and Palestine will not grow as a result of US intervention because the UN resolution limits America's political power in the peace effort. UN resolution 242 only allows one member from the US government to mediate the peace talks because the UN resolution is setup to support peace. The resolution limits US political power because Israel and Palestine are supposed to handle the peace effort legitimately with little US aid. Thus, US intervention in the Mid East peace will not spark a war between Israel and Palestine because the resolution doesn't require the US take action to enforce peace.

Conducting security measures by the intelligence provided by the US representative will stop the disruption of peace efforts because new security checkpoints on the border of each State will stop suicide bombings and restrict Israel's control over their military. Checkpoints strategically located at State borders will help stop suicide bombers from entering either country because they help monitor the flow of people and what they carry, Beyond checkpoints, the US should hold tight restrictions over Israel's military because they have violated the rights of Palestinians living in Israel.

The US role in the peace effort between Israel and Palestine comes by the steps outlined by reenactment of the UN Resolution 242 because it promotes peace and through promotion comes the end to suicide bombings. The UN resolution will provide credibility for America because America is promoting peace through UN guidelines. Further more, America's intervention in Mid East peace will not spark a war because the UN resolution calls for support and no political assistance in the peace effort. In conclusion, to reenact UN resolution 242 is a significant move because the US shows a role in Mid East peace by saving the lives of innocent people.
