

CAD Lab -

We learned so many new things from Solid works. You can basically create any thing in Solid work and the best thing about it is that we can make the structure as complex as possible. During the semester we made various things as our class work. Initially we make different parts using sketches and features and then using different parts we assemble the parts and then we make the final product.

