Concept Design Report

Background

For this project I was expected to design a house according to a client's specifications. The program to be used was SketchUp. A prior knowledge on how to use SketchUp and design houses was required. A non-traditional house had to be designed while meeting all of the client's specifications.

Design Concept

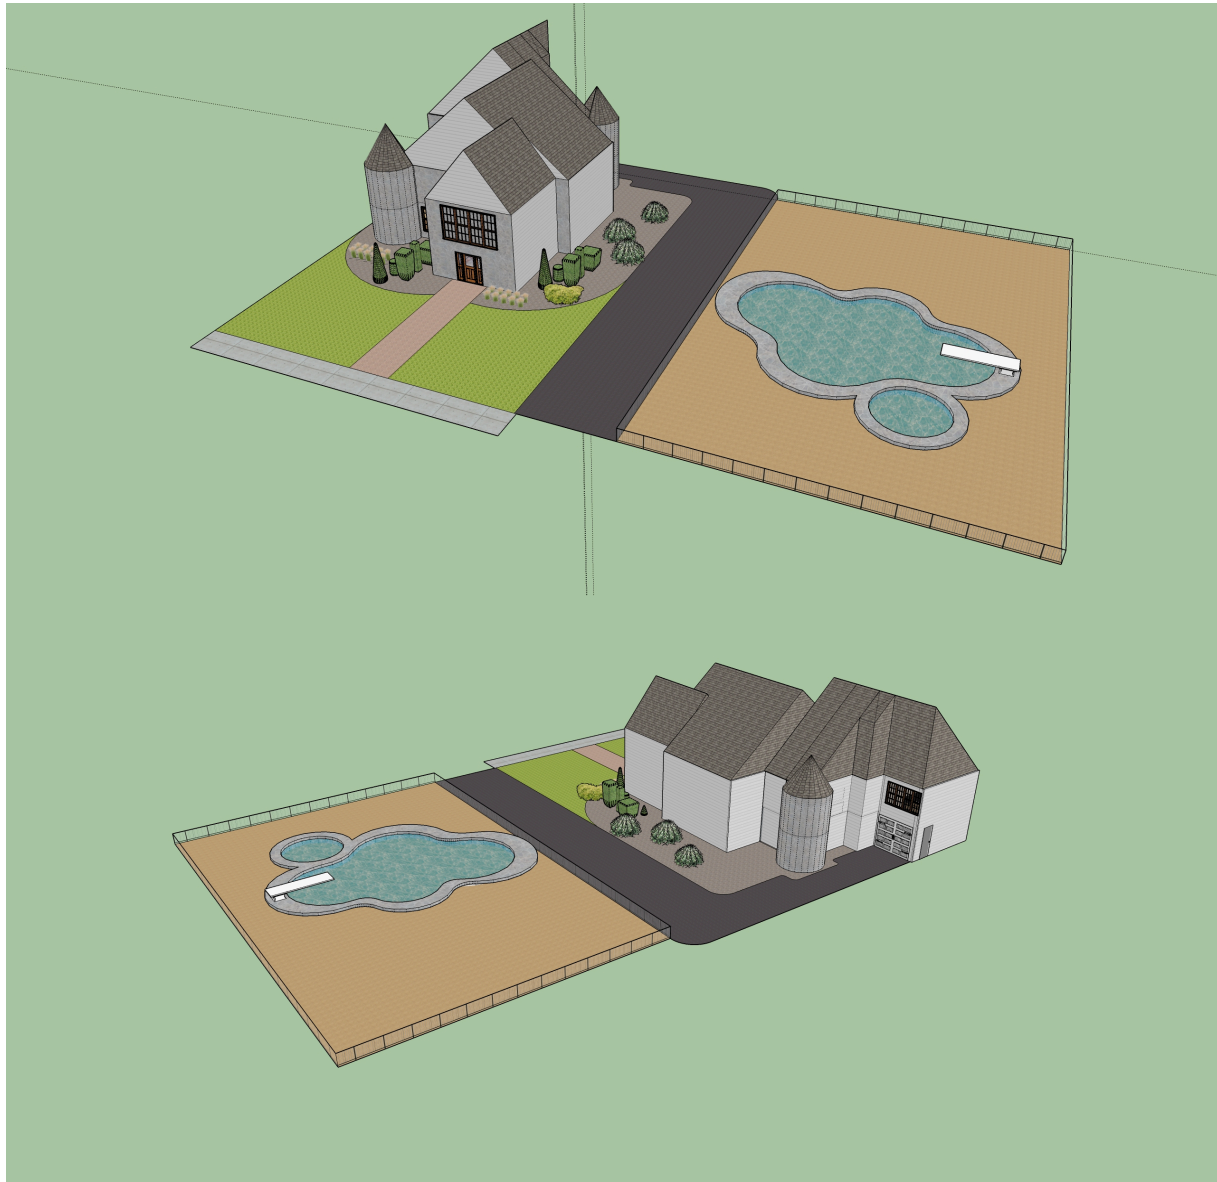

The style of the house is influenced from Victorian homes with the two cylinders on opposite corners of the home. The home includes mainly neutral colors, such as browns and tans while featuring a few stone accent walls in the living room and foyer. The interior boasts an open floor plan on the first floor, while there are two large bedrooms, a full bath with Jacuzzi tub, and office space on the second level of the house. The exterior of the house displays more gray tones with white siding and gray stone accent up the columns and on the front faces of the house. The house is located in South Jersey where my company is based from.

Components of the Project

The components of the project include a minimum of 4-5 rooms, doors and windows, an abundance of furniture, color coordination, landscaping with various bushes and shrubs, an outdoor feature, sidewalks and driveway, and a unique feature.

Project Description

Exterior View

VIEW 1

The exterior of the home includes 6 exterior windows with two doors with outdoor access. The home is influenced by Victorian homes with its cylinder parts. There is gray stone on each front face of the house as well as the cylinders, the rest of the house is covered in white siding. The house is landscaped with various shrubs and plants as it also has a large front lawn, driveway, and fenced in inground pool. All of the roofing are A-frames varying in size. The home also includes a sidewalk in front.

Interior View

The interior of the home includes various rooms including a living room, dining room, kitchen, bathrooms, three bedrooms with large closets, office space, and many lounge areas. When you walk in the home you are welcomed by a beautiful foyer with cathedral ceilings, with a balcony above overlooking. You will find warm, neutral tones throughout the entire house as well as hard wood flooring on the entire first floor and partially the second. There are two stone accent walls in the house, one behind the TV in the living room and one on the wall with the front door. There is also a 1 car garage but has the space of a two car garage.
