Course description: This course is proposed to offer students near the completion of their language requirements for secondary licensure with the background and experience needed to teach languages to secondary-level students. Students will be provided with the necessary information to assist them throughout their teaching careers in making sound judgments in curricula and lesson planning, and their language teaching techniques.

Major topics will include:
- Second language learning in the classroom
- Vocabulary instruction
- Grammar instruction
- Development of spoken language ability
- Development of listening and reading ability
- Web-based language instruction

This course will address the topics outlined above through a combination of readings, lectures, group discussions, and activities of both theory and practice in second language instruction.

Course materials:
Readings: These will be made available on Angel, and are taken primarily from the following sources (there may be some additional readings provided later):

Oxford: Oxford University Press.

Grading criteria:
1. Exams (3 exams @ 15% each): 45%
2. Web portfolio: 20%
3. In-class microteaching/peer feedback: 20%
4. Reading-based quizzes/participation: 15%
Criteria description

Exams: There will be three (3) exams during the semester that test your knowledge of the material covered in class. The content and dates for the exams are indicated in the weekly calendar, although these dates may be subject to change depending on the pacing of the material as the semester progresses. Students with a valid medical excuse may make up a missed exam within 2 days of returning to class.

Web-based portfolio: Toward the end of the semester, you will be asked to turn in a portfolio with materials related to a basic teaching unit.

In addition, you will be asked to include a teaching philosophy regarding your approach to teaching a (foreign/second) language.

In-class microteaching: You will plan and demonstrate a language class of approximately 20 minutes, in one of the following areas: vocabulary, information-exchange, grammar input, and grammar output.

The effectiveness of the microteaching lesson will be evaluated by the class members and by me, through written comments on the activity, including reactions and suggestions for improvement.

Academic Integrity: The Pennsylvania State University defines academic integrity as the pursuit of scholarly activity in an open, honest and responsible manner. All students should act with personal integrity, respect other students’ dignity, rights and property, and help create and maintain an environment in which all can succeed through the fruits of their efforts (Faculty Senate Policy-49-20).

Dishonesty of any kind will not be tolerated in this course. Dishonesty includes, but it not limited to, cheating, plagiarizing, fabricating information or citations, facilitating acts of academic dishonesty by others, having unauthorized possession of examinations, submitting work of another person or work previously used without informing the instructor, or tampering with the academic work of other students. Students who are found to be dishonest will receive academic sanctions and will be reported to the University’s Judicial Affairs office for possible further disciplinary sanction.

Disability Access Statement: The Pennsylvania State University encourages qualified people with disabilities to participate in its programs and activities and is committed to the policy that all people shall have equal access to programs, facilities, and admissions without regard to personal characteristics not related to ability, performance, or qualifications as determined by University policy or by state or federal authorities. If you anticipate needing any type of accommodation in this course or have questions about physical access, please tell the instructor as soon as possible.

TENTATIVE WEEKLY CALENDAR

Note: these dates and readings may change depending on how much time we spend in class discussing each topic, but this will give you at least a rough idea of some due dates, what we’ll be covering, and when we’ll be covering it
