Let's walk along Lehigh Avenue in the year 1929 and see how many people and businesses we can remember.

Do you remember Webster Kehler's clothing store which was located on the corner of Lehigh Avenue and Frack Street? This was later owned by Levi Bohard who had a men's store here for many years. Anthony Weiss, his clerk, is well remembered for his fancy window displays. Naysh Decker was a clerk for many years and also worked here when Arthur Bohard conducted this store. Today the storeroom is occupied by the Terrace Music Store.

Do you remember when Joseph Ziegler sold flowers to the rear of the Bohard Building? Mrs. Allen had a hat store in this storeroom for many years later, and Nick Irvln conducted a saloon at the far rear of this building for many years. Charles Seaman was a cobbler and also had a shoe store at 5 North Lehigh Avenue where the Grace Hepler Beauty Shop is located.

As we walk along the street we come to Bill Holt's Drug Store at 7 North Lehigh Avenue. A stationery store is located here and is still operated by the same family. Mrs. Alex Holt Scott is proprietor.

The Nice Funeral Home at 9 North Lehigh Avenue was owned by Wood A. Nice, then Wynn and now his son, Ronald conducts this business. The Nice family have located in town for four generations.

Sam Purnell's Barber Shop was located at 11 North Lehigh Avenue. Mr. Purnell was also a squire and his office was in the back of this shop. Walking further up the street we come to the Scott home built on a high terrace lawn. Mr. Scott was the station master at the Frackville Station. The McAndrew family lived here for many years after that and today Mrs. Tom Lewis resides here.

The People's Trust Bank was located next door and today the Workmen's Compensation offices are located here.

Across the street was the People's Shoe Store which is now Yarowsky's Shoe Store and next door to it was Arnoff's dry goods and notions store. Do you remember the stockings, aprons, and other items being hung from the ceiling in this store? Leonard's Flower Shop is now located here. As you look at this picture note the trolley tracks—brick was used in the center and on 18 inches of each side of the tracks but the rest of the street is unpaved. There is a Maxwell Touring car and a Model A Ford on the picture.

The property on which St. Peter's church was built was bought from William Haupt in the spring of 1892. Dedication services were held on October 30, 1892. The church was built at a cost of $4200. Some residents of town still remember that Rev. Bower had a horse and buggy which he used to visit his parishioners. This building was dismantled and a new church was built at the rear of this frame church. Note the hitching post for the horses and the stepping block for the women as they stepped out of the buggy. The streets were not paved and the sidewalk was red brick.

Rev. Bower lived at 33 South Nice Street where the Paul Anthony family now reside.
