On Tuesday, October 31, 1919, Frackville gave returning soldiers of World War I a great welcome. At 4 p.m., the biggest fantastic automobile parade ever seen was held in honor of our town's seven heroes, by Frackville High School students, the Army and W.C.T.U., and several floats entered by the Frackville Lumber and Supply Company. The parade, sponsored by the First Baptist Church. The program book, printed by the Frackville Star Printing Company, was followed by an automobile with the names of all the soldiers who were unable to walk, and the flags of the United States and Pennsylvania. The parade started at 10:30 a.m. led by the Good Will Hose Company Band, followed by the soldier boys, with Capt. George H. Hock, in command and a Legionnaire Huber and Ray existing. There were two groups dressed in Khaki uniforms who assisted in making shells at Campy's Point, followed by an automobile with several soldiers who were unable to walk, and Mrs. Morton Kuehle, a Red Cross nurse. The O.A.R. Committeemen, Defense League was represented by the Bowers Band of St. Clair leading the first contingent of school children with victory banners flying over them. The second grade section each had a streamer of white crepe paper in Maypole fashion, the third grade represented victory, Bowers Band of Schuylkill Haven led the fourth and fifth grade school children, the sixth grade with victory, the girls of the senior class had a flag representing Liberty. The parochial school was headed by Rev. F. P. McCann with a delegation of 130 children carrying banners of Prophet, American Legion and Marine Corp. The junior section was the first float, representing Justice, Liberty and Peace. The Elmore Band of Shenandoah led the Junior Order United American Mechanics who had a float representing the Home Canteen girls on the other hand showed dancing in white uniforms. The Navy Band of Baxley, New Jersey, the Shenandoah had the Patriotic Order Sons of America float and the American Mechanics who had a float representing Victory. Bowers Band of Schuylkill Haven led the fourth and fifth grade school children, the sixth grade with victory, the girls of the senior class had a flag representing Liberty. The parochial school was headed by Rev. F. P. McCann with a delegation of 130 children carrying banners of Prophet, American Legion and Marine Corp. The junior section was the first float, representing Justice, Liberty and Peace.

After the parade the veterans were taken to White's Theatre where they were served lunch. A football game between Frackville and Port Carbon was played at 1:30 p.m. and there were 17,500 spectators. There was a display of fireworks held at the rear of the Washington High School at 9 p.m. and a dance was held at Hillbrand's Hall.

The Elmore Band of Shenandoah led the Junior Order United American Mechanics who had a float representing the Home Canteen girls on the other hand showed dancing in white uniforms. The Navy Band of Baxley, New Jersey, the Shenandoah had the Patriotic Order Sons of America float and the American Mechanics who had a float representing Victory. Bowers Band of Schuylkill Haven led the fourth and fifth grade school children, the sixth grade with victory, the girls of the senior class had a flag representing Liberty. The parochial school was headed by Rev. F. P. McCann with a delegation of 130 children carrying banners of Prophet, American Legion and Marine Corp. The junior section was the first float, representing Justice, Liberty and Peace. The Elmore Band of Shenandoah led the Junior Order United American Mechanics who had a float representing the Home Canteen girls on the other hand showed dancing in white uniforms. The Navy Band of Baxley, New Jersey, the Shenandoah had the Patriotic Order Sons of America float and the American Mechanics who had a float representing Victory.

The Elmore Band of Shenandoah led the Junior Order United American Mechanics who had a float representing the Home Canteen girls on the other hand showed dancing in white uniforms. The Navy Band of Baxley, New Jersey, the Shenandoah had the Patriotic Order Sons of America float and the American Mechanics who had a float representing Victory. Bowers Band of Schuylkill Haven led the fourth and fifth grade school children, the sixth grade with victory, the girls of the senior class had a flag representing Liberty. The parochial school was headed by Rev. F. P. McCann with a delegation of 130 children carrying banners of Prophet, American Legion and Marine Corp. The junior section was the first float, representing Justice, Liberty and Peace.

The Elmore Band of Shenandoah led the Junior Order United American Mechanics who had a float representing the Home Canteen girls on the other hand showed dancing in white uniforms. The Navy Band of Baxley, New Jersey, the Shenandoah had the Patriotic Order Sons of America float and the American Mechanics who had a float representing Victory. Bowers Band of Schuylkill Haven led the fourth and fifth grade school children, the sixth grade with victory, the girls of the senior class had a flag representing Liberty. The parochial school was headed by Rev. F. P. McCann with a delegation of 130 children carrying banners of Prophet, American Legion and Marine Corp. The junior section was the first float, representing Justice, Liberty and Peace.