New pool proposal squelched by liens

FRIDAY, APRIL 19, 1976

Old Frackville Tales

Lorraine Stanton

Frankville had had many telling stories, for the town was one with a story to tell. One of these stories, perhaps, was the story of Doctor William Dougherty. The family of Doctor Dougherty has been long associated with the practice of medicine in our town.

The doctor was graduated from the Frackville High School and later studied at the Medical College of Pennsylvania. He received his medical degree in 1935 and immediately entered the service of the Saronne State Hospital.

When Doctor Dougherty died, he left a legacy of love and compassion that would be remembered for generations to come. His work in the field of medicine was not just a career, but a calling. His dedication to his patients was unyielding, and his influence can still be felt in the community today.

His contributions to the town were not only in the medical field, but also in the realm of education. He was a member of the American Medical Association and the Pennsylvania Medical Society, and his leadership was recognized by his various civic activities.

The story of Doctor Dougherty is a testament to the power of dedication and hard work. His legacy continues to inspire and guide the community he served, and his memory will live on for years to come.

Central tellers

This column will run every Friday, listing happenings connected with the Frackville Central, Carl Murg, Group Home of 874-1231 if you want something included.

Uniforms for members of English Fire Brigade due no later than April 15th to the firehouse.

Centennial executive board and advisory committee met on Saturday, April 16th at headquarters.

Centennial Association general meeting 8 p.m. April 30 at Goodrich's. Public welcome.