Old Frackville Tales
Lorraine Stanton

Mr. and Mrs. Ky ral Purcell in 1986.

I had a lovely visit with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Purcell at 202 West Market at Old Washington street. I had heard that Mrs. Purcell's parents were native residents of Frackville and were among the first families of the town when they arrived.

Ky ral Purcell was born in Mahanoy City in 1922. His father, George Purcell, was a railwayThanks for the input. Could you provide more details about the Purcell family and their connection to Frackville? I'm interested in learning about their history in the town and any notable events or contributions they made.

I am particularly curious about the mention of the Purcell family's first home. Could you provide more context about this location and its significance in Frackville's history? Additionally, I'm interested in knowing if there are any records or stories about the Purcell family's role in the local community or any other notable events associated with them.

I'd also like to know more about the Purcell family's background and how they came to settle in Frackville. Any information about their migration or their connection to other families in the area would be appreciated. I'm particularly interested in learning about any traditions or customs that were passed down from the Purcell family.

I'm also curious about the phrase "Their first home was on which". Could you clarify what this means and provide more context about the location and its significance?
