The season of 1707-08 is one of the strangest and most interesting of the whole eighteenth century. The strained and unstable situation created in October 1706 manifestly could not last, but what would replace it? The management of Drury Lane changed significantly for the first time since 1693 when Sir Thomas Skipwith gave away his share to Colonel Henry Brett (a decision he subsequently regretted and managed to rescind).\footnote{For the transfer to Brett, see 6 October.} For the present, Christopher Rich was saddled with an energetic and innovation-minded partner—and one who was friendly with the actors, Colley Cibber in particular. Whether Brett and Rich could coexist, and whether Brett could keep the performers happy, remained to be seen. The Queen’s Theatre, meanwhile, was marking time during the autumn under the management of Owen Swiney, awaiting the results of Vanbrugh’s machinations. It offered unadorned plays, feebly opposed by Drury Lane’s tattered remnant of a company, which held a temporary monopoly on opera as well as on the presentation of song and dance in plays.

Vanbrugh had been convinced by 1704 that big money was to be made in opera—and particularly in opera of the new Italian variety. The highly profitable success of Arsinoe and Camilla at Drury Lane in 1705 and 1706 had confirmed him (and many others) in this delusion. What Vanbrugh really wanted was a single-company monopoly on all theatrical entertainments. He had settled for a genre split in 1706, but wanted the musical half, not the dramatic half. He was clearly determined to seize control of the opera, even at the price of losing the right to perform plays. Probably not coincidentally, Rich found his singers in a state of open mutiny by mid-autumn 1707 (see entries for 15, 18, and ca. late November). Without any agreement and long before the Lord Chamberlain issued formal orders, Vanbrugh was tendering offers to singers and lining up an opera orchestra. Among his notes is a document labelled “Heads of ye Proposall for ye year for ye several Performers". “To sing at ye Theatre in ye Haymarket twice a week for a year, to commence at Christmas 1707.” Vanbrugh was counting on Lord Chamberlain Kent’s cooperation, clearly signalled in Kent’s order of 1 December 1707 permitting fourteen important orchestral musicians “to perform in the Operas at the Queens Theatre in the Haymarkett” (LC 5/154, p. 288). The infighting was protracted and bitter, with the opera performers walking out of advertised performances at Drury Lane in November and Rich successfully preventing them from participating in an advertised performance at the Queen’s Theatre on 9 December. Rich must have known that the Lord Chamberlain was against him, and the combination of a weak acting company (see 11 October) and rebellious singers made his position untenable. He managed, however, to stall and argue long enough to force highly advantageous terms out of Vanbrugh and Kent.

What Rich gained from the Lord Chamberlain’s order of 31 December (LC 5/254, pp. 299-300) was a monopoly on the performance of plays—something he had lost at the time of the 1694 actors’ rebellion and had long despaired of ever regaining. Theatre historians call Kent’s decree the “Order of Union” because it enforced the amalgamation of the two acting companies and returned all actors to Drury Lane. This was indeed a byproduct of Vanbrugh’s successful politicking, but the decree was conceived and motivated not in terms of joining the acting companies but as a genre separation that would definitively disentangle opera from straight plays. If Vanbrugh were correct in his idea of the profitability of opera, then he would be able to coin money out of a private goldmine, free of annoying competition from another musical company. The actors must have been far from pleased at being summarily returned to the employment of Christopher Rich, but no doubt they were promised protection by Kent and they could hope that Brett would be a mitigating influence. No actor protests are recorded, however sour the actors’ private opinions of Rich.

Vanbrugh quickly discovered that the results of his brilliant maneuverning were not at all what he intended. Singers capable of performing creditably in opera were in short supply, and since they were not under contract to anyone they were free to demand any salaries that fancy or rapacity might suggest. Vanbrugh had acquired his monopoly, but without singers the Queen’s Theatre would have to remain dark. In early January he argued, cajoled, made counter-offers, and begged the Lord Chamberlain’s assistance in pressuring the performers to accept reasonable terms—to no end. A substantial cross-section of Vanbrugh’s correspondence and many of his foul papers are preserved in various libraries and have been published in Vice Chamberlain Coke’s Theatrical Papers (excerpts printed under date below).
In them one can trace Vanbrugh’s dawning realization that he would be forced to accept grossly inflated salaries and that receipts would come nowhere near covering them. By early April he concluded that only massive subsidy from the Queen could set the operation on a sound financial basis. He begged persistently for such help, but entirely without results: Anne may not have been ill-disposed, but her interest in theatre was scant and her interest in opera perhaps even less. By early May Vanbrugh had given up and bailed out. He made an honorable effort to pay as many bills as he could, but salaries had been set at levels double what the company’s receipts could meet. Vanbrugh’s letter about the fiasco to the Earl of Manchester on 27 July 1708 points to several causes of the disaster: the mid-season start; the Lord Chamberlain’s “Supposition that there wou’d be Immence gain” keeping him from opposing the singers’ demands for “Extravagant Allowances”; similar beliefs on the part of “the Towne” causing them to refuse to “come into Any Subscription.” Vanbrugh was honest, intelligent, and well-intentioned, but he was also misguided and drastically under-capitalized. If the public could be persuaded to accept far higher prices or would subscribe for tickets to expensive new productions, then perhaps the books could be balanced. Owen Swiney had some capital and thought he could make the opera pay; Vanbrugh was extremely relieved to hand the whole operation over to him, claiming only the annual rent due for use of his theatre.

In retrospect, the opera company’s flop in the spring of 1708 seems totally predictable. Opera was performed only twice a week, but with a company able to perform only opera there was simply not enough repertory to keep the audience interested for forty to fifty nights (Vanbrugh’s projected total). The terms of the union-cum-genre-separation (and the resulting nature of Vanbrugh’s company) made production of semi-opera impossible: he had no actors for spoken parts. Arsinoe might have been resurrected, but beyond that no all-sung operas existed in English. The only way to expand the repertory was to gamble on mounting new works, which was not only risky but extremely expensive. In the event, Vanbrugh was so short of cash that he never tried a second new opera but simply terminated his season when he ran out of money. The company gave only five performances after the first of April.

Little is known of affairs at Drury Lane in the spring of 1708. The situation cannot have been comfortable: old lawsuits between Rich and previously disgruntled actors continued in the courts (see 22 January 1708). Outwardly the company went about its business quietly and competently. The one managerial document that survives is an agreement of 31 March 1708 in which Brett appointed Wilks, Cibber, and Estcourt co-managers. One of the clauses in this grant is a provision that the patentees would take between one-third and one-half of benefit receipts from the proceeds earned by actors and actresses with salaries under 50s. per week (which meant, in practice, from most actors’ benefits). Wilks, Cibber, and Estcourt appear to have agreed cheerfully enough to this gouging of their less fortunate colleagues, but when the Drury Lane management attempted to implement the provision the next season, the result was bitter protest and the silencing of the company.
Vanbrugh’s fiasco must have been widely known among Londoners, for the failure of his opera company was manifest. Probably only theatrical insiders knew the state of affairs at Drury Lane, and there is no way to tell how soon word of the new benefit arrangements leaked out—quite possibly not until the spring of 1709. Brett’s agreement with the actors boded ill for any hope that he would restrain Christopher Rich. And Rich’s stormy history as patentee suggested that restoring his monopoly could only lead to trouble.

DRURY LANE (acting company through 10 January 1708)

Rich's patent company—what was left of it—managed to mount 42 performances between mid-October and mid-January. They gave 24 different plays, virtually all of them repertory warhorses (The Committee, Rule a Wife, The Spanish Fryar), plus a recent success (The Recruiting Officer), and nine nights of semi-opera (when Rich could persuade his recalcitrant singers to perform). No new plays were attempted.

PERSONNEL. Actors: John Bickerstaff; Matthew Birkhead; James Carnaby; Ambrose Cole; Richard Estcourt; Mr Furrs; Philip Griffin; Francis Leigh; George Pack; William Pinkethman; George Powell; Mr Provost; Thomas Smith; Mr Weller.

Actresses: Helena Babb; Lucretia Bradshaw; Susannah Cox; Mary Kent; Frances Maria Knight; Jane Lucas; Henrietta Moore; Susanna Mountfort; Diana Temple.

Singers: Francis Hughes; Mr Laurence; Richard Leveridge; Littleton Ramondon; Mr Renton; Purbeck Turner; Valentini // Margarita de l’Epine; Joanna Maria Lindelheim (the Baroness); Mary Lindsey; Catherine Tofts.

Dancers: René Cherrier; Charles Delagarde; Mons. Des Barques // Mrs Evans; Ann Norris; Hester Santlow.

Musicians: No record of the orchestra as such survives, but the fourteen players named in the Lord Chamberlain’s order of 1 December 1707 (granting them permission to perform at the Haymarket) were presumably obligated to Drury Lane, or no such permission would have been needed.

Other Employees: Zachary Baggs (treasurer).

Proprietors: Christopher Rich and Henry Brett.

3 Pack deserted from Queen’s to Drury Lane in the late autumn but was never advertised there. Whether he performed at DL is not known.

4 We have presumed that three roles advertised for “Mr Waller” this month actually belong to Mr Weller. The Biographical Dictionary (XV, 229, 339) treats them as separate people, but “Waller” appears only during one week in October 1707.

5 Bradshaw may or may not have performed with this company; she was not advertised. She performed at Queen’s through at least 3 December and petitioned for reinstatement there on 31 December.
QUEEN'S THEATRE, HAYMARKET (acting company to 10 January 1708)

Much the stronger company, this troupe mounted 69 performances of 32 plays between 11 October and 10 January. The relatively late start probably indicates doubt as to what the future held. If Vanbrugh had been able to effect his union when he wanted to, the company would have opened at Drury Lane. Unsettled though conditions were, the company nonetheless tried three new plays. Cibber's Double Gallant (1 November; 4 nights in all) was merely an amalgam of plays by Centlivre, Burnaby, and Molière. According to the Muses Mercury, the audience took offense at the pretence that it was a new play. It was eventually to become a stock piece, but it did little for the company's fortunes this season. Nicholas Rowe's Royal Convert (25 November; 7 nights total) proved a succès d'estime, but no more than that. Cibber's Lady's last Stake (13 December; 5 nights) was a solemn, preachy exercise in moral virtue. It was performed occasionally for many years, but never became a stock play.

DRURY LANE (acting company from 13 January 1708)

The new united company mounted 103 performances of 69 different plays, including three new mainpieces. They also tried a single night of a new after-piece. The exceptionally large number of different titles presumably reflects the need to accommodate the oversized company created by the union. During the spring the company appears to have carried (and paid) the performers from both of the autumn troupes, but everyone must have known that there would be a shaking-out, and that many of the younger and lesser performers would find themselves unemployed in London. The company had no luck with its new offerings, only one of which even lasted three nights. Charles Goring's Irene or the Fair Greek (9 February) struggled through the usual third-night author's benefit and died. Theobald's Persian Princess (31 May) and Taverner's (?) The Maid's the Mistress (5 June) failed so badly that the company gave the authors their benefits on the second night and had done with them. Yet the total failure of Estcourt's delightful little Prunella, a one-act burlesque of opera staged on 12 February, is difficult to understand. The music is lost; perhaps it was not well arranged, or was ill-performed.

QUEEN’S THEATRE, HAYMARKET (opera company from 13 January)

The company gave only three works. Camilla had been a great favorite from the time of its première in 1706, but numerous performances had taken the bloom off it. Thomyris (January 1707) was neither new nor particularly popular. The one new opera, Love’s Triumph, limped through eight nights and had to be abandoned. Salaries for all performers from the Coke Papers, nos. 49-50, are given under ca. late January 1708, below.

Singers: Giuseppe Cassani (7 and 10 February only?); Mr Laurence; Richard Leveridge; Littleton Ramondon; Purbeck Turner; Margarita de l’Epine; Maria Gallia; Joanna Maria Lindelheim (the Baroness); Mary Lindsey; Catherine Tofts.

UNDATEABLE PLAY ASSOCIATED WITH THIS SEASON

The Richmond Heiress. By Thomas Durfey. An unrecorded revival of this play may have occurred about this time, most probably during the summer, when ads are irregular. When the play was revived at Drury Lane on 2 March 1714, it was advertised as “Not Acted these Six Years.”

11 With the exception of Champelon, house servants are known from Coke Papers, no. 55 (a per diem paylist dated 8 March 1708).
October 1707

Monday 6  DOCUMENT. On this day Sir Thomas Skipwith, one of the Drury Lane patentees, formally transferred his entire right in the company and patent to Colonel Henry Brett for the nominal sum of 10s. What appears to be a verbatim transcription of most of the indenture is printed by Fitzgerald (I, 252-257); the location of the original MS is not known.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT: Sir Thomas [Skipwith] happen'd in the Summer preceding the Re-union of the Companies to make a Visit to an intimate Friend of his, Colonel Brett, of Sandywell, in Gloucestershire; where the Pleasantness of the Place, and the agreeable manner of passing his Time there, had raised him to such a Galantry of Heart, that in return to the Civilities of his Friend the Colonel he made him an Offer of his whole Right in the Patent; but not to overrate the Value of his Present, told him he himself had made nothing of it these ten Years: but the Colonel (he said) being a greater Favourite of the People in Power, and (as he believ'd) among the Actors too, than himself was, might think of some Scheme to turn it to Advantage, and in that Light, if he lik'd it, it was at his Service. After a great deal of Railery on both sides of what Sir Thomas had not made of it, and the particular Advantages the Colonel was likely to make of it, they came to a laughing Resolution That an Instrument should be drawn the next Morning of an Absolute Conveyance of the Premises. A Gentleman of the Law well known to them both happening to be a Guest there at the same time, the next Day produced the Deed according to his Instructions, in the Presence of whom and of others it was sign'd, seal'd, and deliver'd to the Purposes therein contain'd. (Cibber, Apology, II, 32-33)

COMMENT: Skipwith subsequently regretted this transaction and sued for the return of his shares. See 1 February 1709.

EDITION. Sauny the Scot; or the Taming of the Shrew, Written by John Lacy Esq; (London: B. Bragge, 1708). Publication was advertised in the Daily Courant on 26 February 1708. Although this edition is said on the title page to be "As it is now Acted at the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane," it contains what is almost undoubtedly the cast for this performance at the Queen's Theatre. Lord Beaufoy—Keen; Woodall—Johnson; Geraldo—Husbands; Tranio—Fairbank; Sir Lyonell Winlove—Cross; Win-love—Booth; Snatchpenny—Pack; Jammy—Norris; Sauny—Bullock // Margaret—Mrs Bradshaw; Biancha—Mrs Mills. (The same cast performed at Drury Lane on 19 June 1708, save that Bickerstaff replaced Booth as Winlove.) The unsigned dedication says that this “Offering . . . is a Piece that took its Original from the Celebrated Pen of the famous Shakespeare, and afterwards receiv’d its finishing Strokes from that Ingenious Comedian Mr. Lacy; and thereby has acquired the Merit of appearing so often on the Stage . . . and even to continue its Reputation to the present Generation, a still darling entertainment.”

COMMENT. Between date and play title the ad contains the cryptic phrase “(in Order to Compleat the Company),” which we interpret to mean that Drury Lane had to mount a play it was able to cast while it filled out its roster. Genest (II, 383) observes that “The Company was very weak, and stood much in need of Recruits.”

DOCUMENT. Memorial of Mary Porter: She had been nearly 12 years on the Stage when Mr Vanbrugh left the House to Mr Swinny and was then at 40's a week. When several of the Gentlewomen that performed principal Parts either neglected or were sick, she at a nights notice study'd and play'd them perfect the next night and to satisfaction, for which she hop'd for encouragement or at least to have had such Parts given her by which she might have gain'd reputation when there was more time to study. But instead thereof generally those Parts were given to such as were below her. That she was postponed in her benefit Play to all the younger actors, and not admitted to have it till the 2d. of May last when the Town was almost empty and may Fayre was begun. That at that time more than half the company of the House were out of the pay thereof yet the full £40 for the charge of that night was expected as if they had been in pay, and tho there was no more pay'd in February before when they were all in pay. That a little before their begining to Play this winter a Gentlewoman was taken in over her head, which will still be a means to take away those Parts from her by which she hop'd to advance herself. She omits other matters tho absolutely necessary as Cloaths conveniency for dressing &c. She hopes she may reasonably expect an advance of Salary, an assurance of her benefit Play at a seasonable time, and a certain agreement for the same and such other matters as are proper. CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. Of the New Opera’s and Plays preparing for the Theatres. The Season for renewing the Pleasures of the Town advancing, the Theatres are open’d, and Plays acted at Both Houses; but such as have been so often play’d, that ’twill be no News to the World to hear of them; it may perhaps be some to know there are several Opera’s doing from the Italian; but that which is in the greatest Forwardness, is La Didone Delirante of Scarlatti, which has been finish’d these two Months, is now learning by the Performers, and will be ready to be practis’d within three Weeks. We have Reason to know something of this Opera, but that Reason hinders us from Saying any more of it. ’Tis entirely Scarlatti’s, and there’s no body, who knows any thing of Musick, will desire any other Recommendation of it. The Names of the other Opera’s, and whose Compositions they are, we have not yet learnt.

The Stage is promis’d three new Tragedies this Winter, one from Mr Row, which we hear is finish’d, and that ’tis written on an English Story: Another from Mr Dennis, and a third from Mr Smith, Author of the Phaedra and Hypolitus: We are told his Subject is the Story of the Lady Jane Grey, which miscarry’d in Mr Banks’s Hands, but may expect a better Fortune in Mr Smith’s.

As for Comedies, there’s no great Expectation of any thing of that kind, since Mr Farquehar’s Death. The two Gentlemen, who would probably always succeed in the Comick Vein, Mr Congreve and Capt. Steel, having Affairs of much greater Importance to take up their Time and Thoughts. And unless the Players write themselves, the Town must wait for Comedy till another Genius appears. (Muses Mercury, “September” 1707)

COMMENT. The Scarlatti adaptation was never performed and is lost. Rowe’s The Royal Convert premiered at Queen’s on 25 November. Dennis’ Appius and Virginia was not performed until the next season (see 5 February 1709). Smith’s tragedy (otherwise unknown) was never produced.

FIRST EDITION. The Double Gallant: or, The Sick Lady's Cure. A Comedy. As it is Acted at the Queen's Theatre in the Hay-market. Written by Mr Cibber (London: Bernard Lintott and John Phillips, n.d. [1707]). Dramatis Personae: Sir Solomon Sadlife—Johnson; Clerimont—Booth; Careless—Wilks; Atall—Cibber; Capt. Strut—Bowen; Sir Squabbly Spithair—Norris; Saunter—Pack; Old Mr Wilful—Bullock; Sir Harry Atall—Cross; Supple—Fairbank // Lady Dainty—Mrs Oldfield; Lady Sadlife—Mrs Crosse; Clorinda—Mrs Rogers; Sylvia—Mrs Bradshaw; Wishwell—Mrs Saunders; Situp—Mrs Brown. Prologue. Epilogue. Copy used: Readex. Publication on 8 November was advertised in the Daily Courant of 7 November. On the complex publication history, see John W. Bruton, “The Text of Cibber’s The Double Gallant: or, The Sick Lady's Cure,” Studies in Bibliography, 30 (1977), 186-196. Cibber received £16 2s. 6d. from Lintot for the copyright on 27 October (Nichols, VIII, 294).

To the Reader. When I undertook to make the following Sheets into a Play, I only propos’d to call it a Revis’d one, but some who had Read it were of Opinion, that the Additions in it were of Consequence enough to call it a New one; and the Actors proposing an Advantage by it, the little Concern I had for it, made me comply with their Desires: Notwithstanding I thought my self oblig’d in the Prologue to own how far other Authors had a Claim to it: But I found even that was not enough to silence to Criticks, who wou’d have the Pleasure of taking it to pieces, as if I had endeav’our’d to put it upon ‘em for a Correct Entertainment. I ventur’d last Year upon something of the same kind, in joining the Comical Episodes of the Maiden Queen, and Marriage Ala-mode together [as Marriage a la Mode; or, The Comical Lovers, February 1707]; the Alteration cost me but six days trouble; and not calling it a New Play, we found the Town very favourable to it; and tho’ I have no reason to Repent of my Trouble in this, yet had we taken the same measures now, I must still think it had ran less Hazard.—But that the Town may not think ‘tis Laziness that makes me fond of these sort of Undertakings, I think it proper to prepare their favourable Thoughts of my Industry, by informing them, that I have a New Play now writing into Parts, which will be Acted before Christmas, that has cost me two Summers hard Pains and Study, there not being one Line in’t, or Thought, either in the Dialogue or Design, but what’s intirely my own, and never seen before. And if it meets but a Candid and Attentive Audience, I don’t question but I shall bid as fair for their Encouragement, as in any other Piece I have ever produc’d.

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. Never Acted before. . . . The Principal parts Acted by Mr Wilks, Mr Cibber, Mr Booth, Mr Johnson, Mr Bullock, Mr Norris, Mr Bowen, Mr Pack, Mrs Oldfield, Mrs Rogers, Mrs Cross, and Mrs Bradshaw.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. The Comedy we made mention of in our last Mercury, to be written by Mr Cibber, has been acted, and met with a Reception which was as unexpected as unwelcome. The Author tells us, he did not much depend on its Success; but it seems the House built more upon it. We are told in the Preface to it, that there will be something of his Own ready for the Stage in a few Weeks; this being borrow’d from Mr Burnaby’s Reform’d Wife. No doubt the new Piece will have better Luck. (Muses Mercury, “October” 1707)

Barton Booth recalled that “as soon as the good-natur’d Town found him out, they resented his calling it a new Play, and hounded it in the most outrageous Manner.” A Collection of Letters . . . to the Late Aaron Hill (1751), p. 80.

“Whincop” says of Centlivre’s Love at a Venture that it was “translated from a French comedy called Le Gallant Double” and performed only at Bath. She offered the play to Drury Lane, where it was rejected, but “some time after Mr Cibber brought out a Play called The Double Gallant, or The Sick Lady’s Cure, in which, as she used to complain, he had taken in the greatest Part of her Play. But Mr Cibber understanding the French Language himself, why may we not suppose, that he translated it from the same Original, as she had done?” (p. 189).
COMMENT. Cibber's entertainment is an amalgam constructed from bits of Susanna Centlivre's Love at a Venture (Bath, 1706), William Burnaby's The Ladies Visiting-Day (LIF, ca. early February 1701), and Burnaby's The Reformed Wife (DL, ca. March 1700). Danchin (I, 381) suggests additional borrowings from Centlivre's Love's Contrivance and Molière's Le médecin malgré lui. Public pressure apparently forced the play's withdrawal after three nights, but it entered the repertory several years later.

COMMENT. The “October” issue of The Muses Mercury, pp. 239-240, prints a ten-line “Prologue spoken at Her Majesty’s Theater in the Hay-market, on Saturday, the 8th of November, by I.B. Esq, Written by Mr Cibber.” (“Harmless to others, thus I mount my Throne.”) The initials do not correspond to the name of any known actor in the company. For the text of the prologue, see Danchin, I, 384-385. The magazine printed the following explanation: “Since the last Month, a good Part of the Town, we speak of those that frequent the Stage, have been diverted with an imaginary Government, that has been talk’d of there a long time. The Gentleman who was to supply Mr. Swinny’s place, seem’d to be very sure that the latter must resign to him, and was possess’d so far with a Belief of it, that he assum’d the Title of Governour, and spoke the following Prologue several times. . . . But this Fancy, a few Days ago, was cur’d, by Mr. Swinny’s coming to an Enclaircissement with the Gentleman; who has since no more pretended to his Government.”
COMMENT: This magazine item cannot be explained with confidence, but it seems likelier to be a joke at Cibber’s expense than an accurate report of his participation in intrigue against Swiney.

DOCUMENT. On this day Robert Wilks brought suit against Christopher Rich (P.R.O. C9/464/126) to block a pair of actions against him by Rich in Queen’s Bench. § THE ROYAL CONVERT [Nicholas Rowe]. Cast not advertised (but see below). (Daily Courant)

FIRST EDITION. The Royal Convert. A Tragedy. As it is Acted at the Queen's Theatre in the Hay-Market. By Her Majesty's Sworn Servants. Written by N. Rowe, Esq; (London: Jacob Tonson, 1708). Copy used: Readex. Dramatis Personæ: Hengist, King of Kent – Booth; Aribert—Wilks; Offa—Husbands; Seofrid—Mills; Oswald—Keen // Rodogune—Mrs Barry; Ethelinda—Mrs Oldfield. Prologue, Spoken by Mr Betterton. Epilogue by Mrs Oldfield. Publication was announced in the Daily Courant on 5 December.

Dedication: To the Right Honourable Charles Lord Halifax. . . . Most kinds of Poetry, but especially Tragedies, come into the World now, like Children born under ill Stars; a general Indifference, or rather Dis-inclination, attends like a bad Influence upon 'em, and after having hustled thro' ill Usage, and a short Life, they sleep and are forgotten. The Relish of Things of this kind is certainly very much alter'd from what it was some time since.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. We do not hear of any other new Comedy, nor any new Tragedies, but Mr Dennis's and Mr Smith's. Mr Row's, call'd, the Royal Convert, was acted the first time on Tuesday last, the 25th of November. Mrs Barry, who is inimitable in all her Actions, did the Poet full Justice, and the Play was generally lik'd, the Audience receiving it with all the outward Signs of Applause, with which Poets and Players are so well pleas'd. (Muses Mercury, "October" 1707)

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. The Theater in Drury-lane has not been much made use of this Season. There was a great Expectation of an Audience for the Opera of Camilla last Saturday [see 15 November], and they were all fore'd to return as they came; the Singers, the Women, and Foreigners especially, refusing to sing, without being secur'd such exorbitant Rates ev'ry Night for the whole Season, that not scarce any one could think they deserve'd for once only. 'Tis said these Singers have a Pastoral [Love's Triumph; see 26 February], which they intend to have perform'd for their own Advantage, exclusive of all others, tho we are very well assur'd, the Musick of Dido, an Opera introduc'd by Mr Leveridge, is the best Musick that ever was heard in England; and we may modestly say, that considering he has so long and so happily divert'd the Town himself, and now desires only to be put on the same Foot with Foreigners and Women, to have his Musick perform'd as it is lik'd, 'twill be a very hard Fate, if he should not have impartial Usage: his Opera having been, to our Knowledge, finish'd almost as soon as the Pastoral was begun. We cannot pretend our selves to determine which is best; there are Persons of Judgment and Quality who are concern'd in the Decision of such Controversies; and as they are Men of equal Worth and Honour, and Englishmen all, 'tis not to be doubted, but an Englishman may depend on having Justice at least done him in his own Country; where the Polite Arts, notwithstanding the malicious Reflections of some Malecontents in Parnassus, have been more encourag'd than in any other Part of Europe.

Besides the Dido and this Pastoral Opera, we are inform'd Mr Higham [Haym] has another Opera preparing, and others: So that the Town is not likely to want the Entertainment of which they have been lately so fond. But it cannot be expected, that above two of these will be perform'd this Winter. (Muses Mercury, “October” 1707)*

December 1707

ca. early December
DOCUMENTS. Two undated manuscripts among the Coke Papers appear to pertain to this period in the autumn of 1707. No. 17 comprises two lists, one enumerating twenty-one proposed members of the opera orchestra (grouped by instruments) with daily salaries ranging from 8 to 30 shillings, the other of “Persons who sign'd ye Petition with ye Prices they askt for every night they are to play.” The latter comprises twenty-three names with salary demands ranging from £1 to £3 per diem. No. 18 is an incomplete roster including twenty-one names and eight blanks (with salaries allowed). The annual salary allowances run from £20 to £40 for a subtotal of £805, plus an allowance of £270 (evidently for six senior musicians named elsewhere) for a grand total of £1070 per annum for musicians. (For complete transcriptions and analysis, see the Coke Papers, nos. 17 and 18.)

c. December
DOCUMENTS. Two undated costume bills (in French) for opera expenses at Drury Lane preserved in the Coke Papers at Harvard must come from about this time. No. 20, addressed to Heidegger, concerns wigs, shoes, gloves, artificial flowers, and ribbon, totalling £28 10s. 8d. No. 21 concerns costumes for Mrs Tofts, Margarita de l'Epine, and Mlle Desbarques, totalling £63 15s. (For transcription and analysis, see the Coke Papers, nos. 20 and 21.)

COMMENT. A full month before the order of union (see 31 December) the Lord Chamberlain was already clearing the way for Vanbrugh's opera project. For analysis in relation to the actual opera orchestra in spring 1708, see the Coke Papers, pp. 31-32. Crouch apparently never joined the opera orchestra. Rich forthwith fired eight of these musicians “upon suspicion of being concern'd in the Project of acting Opera's in the Haymarkett” (see their petition of protest, 31 December).

COMMENT. The intended roles were presumably as follows: Orontes—Valentini; Tigranes—Laurence; Baldo—Ramondon // Thomyris—Mrs de l’Epine; Cleora—Mrs Tofts; Medea—Mrs Lindsey. These performers were members of the Drury Lane company and several of them were advertised for Camilla there on the same day. This ad apparently represents an aggressive attempt at piracy on the part of the managers at Queen’s. Obviously both performances could not have taken place, and in all probability Queen’s had to remain dark. Rich’s singers clearly wanted to desert and were allowed to do so under the terms of the genre separation order of 31 December.

‡ THE LADY’S LAST STAKE; or, The Wife’s Resentment (Written by the Author of the Careless Husband) [Colley Cibber]. Cast not advertised (but see below). (Daily Courant)

FIRST EDITION. The Lady’s last Stake, or, the Wife’s Resentment. A Comedy. As it is acted at the Queen’s Theatre in the Hay-market, By Her Majesty’s Servants. Written by Mr Cibber (London: Bernard Lintott, n.d. [1707]). Copy used: Readex. Dramatis Personae: Lord Wronglove—Wilks; Sir George Brilliant—Cibber; Sir Friendly Moral—Keene // Lady Wrongslove—Mrs Barry; Lady Gentle—Mrs Rogers; Mrs Conquest—Mrs Oldfield; Miss Notable—Mrs Cross. Prologue. Epilogue Spoken by Mr Cibber. Publication on 30 December was advertised in the Daily Courant of 29 December. Cibber received £32 5s. from Lintot for the copyright on 22 November (Nichols, VIII, 294).

Dedication: To the Most Noble The Marquis of Kent, Lord Chamberlain of Her Majesty’s Houshold, &c. The utmost Success I ever propos’d from this Play, was, that it might reach the Taste of a few good Judges, and from thence plead a sort of Title to your Lordship’s Protection: And if the most just and candid Criticks are not the greatest Flatterers, I have not fail’d in my Proposal. As for those Gentlemen that thrust themselves forward upon the Stage before a crowded Audience, as if they resolv’d to play themselves, and save the actor the Trouble of presenting them, they indeed, as they are above Instruction, so they scorn to be diverted by it, and will as soon allow me a good Voice as a Genius. I did not intend it shou’d entertain any, that never come with a Design to sit out a Play; and therefore, without being much mortified, am content such Persons shou’d dislike it. If I would have been less instructive, I might easily have had a louder, tho’ not a more valuable Applause. But I shall always prefer a fixt and general Attention before the noisy Roars of the Gallery. A Play, without a just Moral, is a poor and mercenary Undertaking; and ‘tis from the Success of such Pieces, that Mr Collier was furnish’d with an Advantageous Pretence of laying his unmerciful Axe to the Root of the Stage. Gaming is a Vice, that has undone more innocent Principles, than any one Folly that’s in Fashion, therefore I chose to expose it to the Fair Sex in its most hideous form, by reducing a Woman o’f Honour to stand the presuming Addresses of a Man, whom neither her Vertue or Inclination wou’d let her have the least Taste to: Now ‘tis not impossible but some Man of Fortune, who has a handsome Lady, and a great deal of Money to throw away, may from this startling hint think it worth his while to find his Wife some less hazardous Diversion. If that should ever happen, my End of writing this Play is answer’d; and if it may boast of any Favours from the Town, I now must own they are entirely owing to your Lordship’s Protection of the Theatre. For, without a Union of the best Actors, it must have been impossible for it to have receiv’d a tolerable Justice in the Performance.

The Stage has for many Years, till late, groan’d under the greatest Discouragements, which have been very much, if not wholly owing to the Mismanagement or Avarice of those that have awkwardly govern’d it. Great Sums have been venur’d upon empty Projects, and Hopes of immoderate Gains; and when those Hopes have fail’d, the Loss has been tyrannically deducted out of the Actors Gallery. And if your Lordship had not redeem’d ‘em, they were very near being wholly lay’d aside, or at least, the Use of their Labour was to be swallowed up in the pretended Merit of Singing and Dancing. I don’t offer this as a Reflection upon Musick, (for I allow and feel its Charms) but it has been the Misfortune of that, as well as Poetry, to have been too long in the Hands of those, whose Taste and Fancy are utterly insensible of their Use and Power. And tho’ your Lordship foresaw, and Experience tells us, that both Diversions wou’d be better encourag’d under their separate Endeavours, yet this was a Scheme, that cou’d never be beat into the impenetrable Heads of those that might have honestly paid the Labourer their Hire, and put the Profits of both into their own Pockets. Nay, even the Opera, tho’ the town has neither grudg’d it Pay nor Equipage, from either the Wilfulness or Ignorance of the same General, we see, was not able to take the Field till December.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. As for Comedies, there has been no new one but Mr Cibber's, call'd, The Lady's Last Stake, or the Wife's Resentment: Part of which, the Epilogue, met with universal Applause; and Seignior Ciberini's artful acting it, was with Reason lik'd by all that saw it. The Humour indeed was new, the pretended Grievance it expos'd, by some thought crying, and the Pleasure the Audience took in it was answerable. But what is very extraordinary; the Subject of that Epilogue takes as much after it as it did before, and the same Persons clap both Seignior Ciberini, and Seignior ——— [Valentini]. (Muses Mercury, "December" 1707)

COMMENT. This play was published before the Lord Chamberlain issued the order of union on 31 December, but Cibber was clearly well informed as to what was about to happen. The "Ciberini" epilogue proved very popular and was advertised for performances on 20, 22, 26, and 27 December, and again 1 and 3 January.

DOCUMENT. On this day Richard Estcourt wrote to Sir John Stanley (Secretary to the Lord Chamberlain) to say that he was sick in bed and hence unable to attend a meeting, but begging Stanley's “Friendship in Relation to my benefit Play which I woud feign have out of the way before any alteration of affairs happen among us” (i.e., the proposed union of acting companies). On the same day Estcourt wrote a more formal letter to the Lord Chamberlain, saying “I am the worst way prevented from the Honour of waiting on your lordship by being sick and lame in bed. This morning a letter came from Sir John Stanley ordering Mr Rich to attend you to morrow at eleven, I guess it brings with it some Method and Turne in our Affairs, and I humbly beg that my Benefit Play may be over, which is my great support, before any thing that may hinder me from it may happen.
Tickets are out for it already, and I will dispatch it in the month of January.” For transcriptions and commentary, see the Coke Papers, nos. 26 and 27.

COMMENT. Estcourt received an out-of-season benefit at Queen’s on 5 February.
Whether the Lord Chamberlain had to intervene on his behalf is not known. An undated letter from Estcourt to Lord Cowper (ca. 30 January 1708?) says that he and the players have “come to a Composition of our Difference” and asks that Lady Cowper “assist my lady Malboro who is Generall of this Expedition to compleat the number of Her Forces and make a Glorious Muster” at his benefit. Printed by Philip Roberts in Restoration and Eighteenth Century Theatre Research, 12, no. 1, (May 1973), COMMENT. This is Christopher Bullock’s first recorded appearance.

late December DOCUMENTS. Two undated documents in the Coke Papers in the Harvard Theatre Collection evidently represent Vanbrugh’s gradually solidifying plans for an opera company. One is a tentative (and incomplete) roster of singers and musicians with individual salaries pencilled in, the orchestra totalling £845 (with some major blanks) and the singers £2490. The other is a rough estimate of potential expenses (£6000) and income (£7680) for the spring of 1708—i.e., a presumptive profit of £1680. (For full transcriptions and analysis, see the Coke Papers, nos. 22 and 24.)

Wednesday 31 DOCUMENT. On this day Charles Dieupart filed a long and detailed complaint against Christopher Rich and the Drury Lane management on behalf of some of the principal singers and dancers who had performed in operas there.

Valentini, Margarita de l’Epine, and Catherine Tofts “beg leave to Represent, The shortness of the time wherein Opera’s are perform’d, and how long they are without being Imploy’d, as also the great Expence they must be at in keeping themselves in order to sing, This Climate being much worse than any other for voices, and in short the misery they undergoe if seiz’d with a cold, as well as the slavery they are at to prevent it.”

Margarita de l’Epine asks for 20 guineas arrears from last season, and proportionable pay for two performances this autumn. Mrs Tofts asks 80 guineas reimbursement for opera costumes (which she agrees to deliver up to Rich when paid). Littleton Ramondon asks payment of £10 in arrears. The dancers Cherrier, Desbarques, and Mlle Desbarques “who were prevented making an agreement with Mr Rich upon the project of going to the Hay Market Playhouse” ask £44 for a month’s pay and reimbursement of £23 16s. 8d. miscellaneous expenses. “Those of the Instrumental Musick Vizt Mr Banister, Le Sac, Lullie [Loeillet], la Tour, Paisible, Babel, Roger [Claudio Rogier?] and Dieupart who were turn’d out of Drury Lane Playhouse by Mr Rich upon suspicion of being concern’d in the Project of Acting Opera’s in the Haymarket” ask either that they receive their former salaries from Drury Lane “without alteration” or that if they are employed at the opera they should receive “3 days pay for each Performance; Obligeing themselves to attend any other day of the weeke, either Plays or Practices of Opera’s, as occasion shall require.—And if the Opera is perform’d above twice a week, they dont desire any more than their six days pay,” pointing out that operas “require an attendance of 4 hours without intermissions besides practices.” Valentini asks £25 17s. 3d. reimbursement for costumes. Heidigger asks £20 for miscellaneous expenses. (For a complete transcription, see the Coke Papers, no. 28.)

COMMENT. Whether Rich paid any of these claims is not known.

Wednesday 31 DOCUMENT. Whereas by reason of the Division of her Majestys Comedians into two distinct houses or Companys the Players have not been able to gain a reasonable Subsistance for their Encouragement in either Company nor can plays always be Acted to ye best Advantage. And Whereas the charge of maintaining a Company of Comedians with performers of Opera in the same House is now become too great to be Supported therefore to remedy those inconveniences and for the better regulation and Support of the Theatres I do hereby Order & require
That all Operas and other Musical presentments be perform'd for the future only at her Majestys Theatre in the Hay Market under the direction of the Manager or Managers thereof, with full power and Authority to receive Admitt and Employ any performers in Musick Dancing &c. whom he or they shall judge fitt for their Service and I do hereby strictly charge and forbid ye said Manager or Managers from & after the 10th day of January next to represent any Comedys Tragedys or other Entertainments of ye Stage that are not set to Musick or to erect any other Theatre for that purpose upon pain of being Silenced for breach of this my Order.

I do likewise hereby give leave to the Manager or Managers of ye Theatres in Drury Lane & Dorsett Garden &c. full power and Authority to receive and Admitt into their Company any players or Actors of Tragedy or Comedy they shall think fitt to entertain notwithstanding any Articles or engagements they may be under in any other play House at the same time strictly charging and requiring the said Managers not to performe any Musical Entertainment upon their Stage or to receive into their Service any Dancers or performers in Musick other than such Instrumentall Musick as are not employed in ye Operas and are Necessary for such entertainments upon ye like pain of being Silenced for breach of this Order. And for ye greater encouragement of ye Above nam'd Theatres I do further Order and Require that no person Society or Company of Undertakers what ever do presume to erect any other Theatre or to represent Comedys Tragedys Operas or other entertainments of ye Stage except ye Above Managers of ye Theatres in Drury Lane Dorsett Garden and of the Theatre in the Hay Markett as is before Appointed as they shall Answer ye Contrary at their peril. Given under my hand and Seal this 31. December 1707 in ye Sixth Year of her Majestys Reign. Kent (LC 5/154, pp. 299-300)

COMMENT. This order issued by the Lord Chamberlain is commonly known as the “Order of Union” because it reunited the two acting companies at Drury Lane. Technically, it was a genre separation order, setting up an opera monopoly under Vanbrugh at the Queen’s Theatre and stripping Drury Lane of the right to perform musical entertainments of any kind other than the traditional overtures and act music for plays. For discussion, see the season headnote.

DOCUMENT. Players of the Theatre in ye Haymarket not to be Entertain’d in Drury Lane. Whereas I am informed that Mr Vanbrugge Mr Pack Mrs Porter and Mrs Bradshaw who were entertain’d in her Majestys Company of Comedians at the Hay Markett have left the said Company without your Lordship’s Permission, and your Petitioners being very Sensible of their fault, humbly Request your Lordship, that out of your wonted Goodness you wou’d be Pleas’d to Pardon their Misdemeanor, and Restore them to their

An undated petition in response to this order, requesting reinstatement, is preserved among the Coke papers at Harvard. “The Petition of John Verbruggen, and Mary Porter George Pack and Lucretia Bradshaw. Humbly Sheweth—That your Petitioners having unhappily fal’n under your Lordships displeasure, Leaving the Haymarket Play-House, without your Lordship’s Permission, and your Petitioners being very Sensible of their fault, humbly Request your Lordship, that out of your wonted Goodness you wou’d be Pleas’d to Pardon their Misdemeanor, and Restore them to their Employment, that they may be Partakers of the Union so happily Accom-plish'd by your Lordship." For full transcription, analysis, and discussion of date, see the Coke Papers, no. 30.

Among the Coke papers at Harvard is also an undated note from Henry Brett (evidently to Coke) begging consideration for Bradshaw's reinstatement: "I hope this will find you in a disposition to suffer Mrs Bradshaw to Play upon the terms she has agreed on with Mr Rich. She has convinc'd me she left Mr Vanbrug for reasons that will very well excuse her, and at least if you shou'd severely think there's no room foravour to her as a Player, I hope you will joine with me in not being able to refuse her any thing as Mrs Bradshaw." See the Coke Papers, no. 31.

COMMENT. No record of action on this petition survives, but Porter, Pack, and Bradshaw were all performing with the combined acting company at Drury Lane by February 1708. Verbruggen (who had been in Ireland in summer 1707) evidently fell ill and died before he could perform. Pack and Bradshaw had played at Queen's as recently as 24 November; for Porter's grievances, see 22 October. Clearly all four had moved to Drury Lane in late autumn 1707 without the Lord Chamberlain's permis-

THOMYRIS QUEEN OF SCYTHYA; or, The Royal Amazon [Motteux and Pepusch]. Cast not advertised (but see below). (Daily Courant)

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS: At the Desire of several Persons of Quality.

RECEIPTS: £193 17s. 6d. (Coke Papers, no. 57).

COMMENT: This is the first performance by Vanbrugh's new opera company. They did not advertise a cast for Thomyris, but from the original cast (see 1 April 1707) and the roster of available singers we may reconstruct it with some confidence as follows: Orontes—Valentini; Tigranes—Laurence; Baldo—Leveridge or Ramondon // Thomyris—Margarita de l’Epine; Cleora—Mrs Tofts; Medea—Mrs Lindsey.
Both theatres were dark on Friday 14 January because of a General Fast proclaimed by the Queen (BL 21.h.4[36])

DOCUMENTS: In early and mid-January, Vanbrugh struggled to organize the opera company and get the performers to agree to reasonable salaries. Much of the extant documentation is printed in full in the Coke Papers, and hence is merely summarized here. On 15 January Vanbrugh wrote a harassed note to Coke (Coke Papers, no. 46) again asking his assistance (cf. his letter of 7 January, above), particularly with Mary Lindsey. Anna Lodi demanded 200 guineas for 42 performances early in the month (Coke Papers, no. 32). On 10 January she offered to reduce the price to £150 and to provide her own costumes, but stipulated that she would sing only particular parts in Thomyris and Love’s Triumph, “except I shall be consenting thereto myselfe” (Coke Papers, no. 33). On 11 January she sent Coke a peremptory note: “If my last proposition does not please you I shall never agree to no other. . . . I am ready to deliver the parts whenever tis your command” (Coke Papers, no. 34). She was not hired.

Valentini wrote (evidently to the Lord Chamberlain) in French, offering his “latest proposals,” which were 420 guineas for 40 performances (“this being only ten and a half guineas per evening . . . half the price of last year”), plus 150 guineas for his help in providing and staging Love’s Triumph (Coke Papers, no. 39; our translation). Rough notes and calculations (probably by Coke) preserved in a MS at Harvard contain tentative casts for Pyrrhus and Demetrius (not staged until December 1708) and Love’s Triumph. The figures indicate that the company hoped to bargain Valentini down to 350 guineas (about eight and a half guineas per time) and a hundred pounds for the opera (Coke Papers, no. 40). An undated copy (in French) of the agreement actually reached states that Vanbrugh will pay Valentini 400 guineas, plus 100 for the opera, and that Vanbrugh accepts responsibility for another 100 guineas in fees owed to Motteux (translator of the opera) and to the secretary of the Italian ambassador (Coke Papers, no. 45).

Catherine Tofts—another performer vital to the company’s success—offered Vanbrugh three alternatives: she would sing as often as called for 20 guineas per night; she would sing in all operas performed before 1 July for a flat 400 guineas; she would sing for 10 guineas per time until 1 July if management guaranteed to employ her twice a week (Coke Papers, no. 36). Maria Gallia demanded a flat 700 guineas, while her instrumentalist husband wanted 150—outlandishly high salaries (Coke Papers, no. 43). The castrato Giuseppe Cassani had been engaged by Rich, and consequently Vanbrugh was required to honor his contract, which according to a statement in Haym’s handwriting was for £300, plus £87 10s for travel expenses from Italy, and an additional £50 “Board & Lodging, for 8 Months, with allowance of one Bottle of Wine Every day”—a total of £437 10s. (Coke Papers, no. 42).

A long memorandum from Haym explains existing agreements and future demands. For Pyrrhus and Demetrius and some alterations in Thomyris Rich had agreed to pay him £300. Rich had also engaged the Baroness [Joanna Maria Lindelheim] at £300 in return for thirty performances prior to 1 July 1708. Haym’s “Pretentions” are “that every time I play at the opera, I be payd two Guineas, and every time I make a new opera, that I have a separate bargain for it . . . that I have a power to comand all the Musick [in any opera he provides]; that [I] be not obliged to goe to the tryals [rehearsals] of other opera’s if I doe not judg it necessary, and that no one may comand me besides the Protectors of the Theatre” (Coke Papers, no. 35).

Contract negotiations were complicated by special situations. Among Coke’s notes is a memo to the effect that Hester Santlow had signed a five-year contract with René Cherrier two years earlier promising him “half of what he recieves for her dancing”—an arrangement that clearly left him in a position to withhold her services if he chose to do so (Coke Papers, no. 41).

Vanbrugh’s sense of opera salaries at an interim stage is recorded in an undated document headed “Estimate made of the Charges of ye Opera every night.” Singers’ salaries were clearly still in process of negotiation and some positions among dancers and orchestra members had not been definitely filled. The total (ignoring some holes and problems) is stated as £101 17s. per night (Coke Papers, no. 44).

Some of Vanbrugh’s alarm and frustration is expressed in a letter to Coke of 20 January 1708: “Sir, I endeavour’d twice today to wait on you—I hope you can spare one hour to morrow, that some Conclusion may be made with these singers and musick; for without your Aid, nothing can be done with ’em. There was but £150 last time and £120 to night. ‘Tis impossible to go thorough with it, if the Performers are not reduc’d to Reason. I have Appointed several of ’em to attend you to morrow—I’ll likewise wait on you about ten a Clock and shew you what I have drawn up, which I think is all can possibly be offer’d em. There will be an other misfortune, a Great one if not nip’d in the Bud. I mean musick meetings. There’s one given out to morrow at York Buildings, and the Bills larger & much more remarkable than usuall. I’m told, (and believe) Rich is in the Bottom on’t but I hope you’ll move My Lord Chamberlain for an Order to stop their Performance. Which will be a great means to make our musitians both accept reasonable salarrys and be carefull in their Business. I am Sir Your most humble servent J. Vanbrugh.” (Coke Papers, no. 47)

COMMENT. Cibber states (Apology, I, 301) that at this performance Estcourt added a fourth line to Shakespeare’s epilogue in reference to the union of England and Scotland (“This being a Year of Unity”), an allusion well received by the audience.

Thursday 15

DOCUMENT. On this day thirty-five members of the Drury Lane company were “sworn” as the Queen’s servants. On 6 January Lord Chamberlain Kent had issued a preliminary order: “Whereas I have thought fitt for ye better regulation . . . of the stage that all the Actors should be sworn her Majesty’s servants According to Antient Custome,” the Drury Lane managers are required to transmit a list of all such persons as they think “fitt to entertain as Actors” who have not already been sworn (LC 5/154, p. 300). On 15 January the following order was recorded: “Comedians to be sworn. These are to Require You to swear and Admitt Mr Robt Wilks, Mr Richard Estcourt, Mr Colley Cibber, Mr George Powell, Mr Barton Booth, Mr John Mills, Mr Theophilus Keen, Mr Henry Norris, Mr Christopher Bullock, Mr John Bickerstaff, Mr Francis Leigh, Mr James Carnaby, Mr Thomas Kent, Mrs Anne Oldfield, Francisca Knight, Mrs Jane Rogers, Mrs Susana Montfort, Mrs Mary Powell, Mrs Henrietta Moore, Mrs Margaret Bignell, Mrs

c. late January

DOCUMENTS. Three documents among the Coke Papers appear to reflect a near-final set of performers and contracts for the opera company in the spring of 1708. Nos. 48 and 49 include virtually identical sets of totals (with individual salaries for principals in no. 49 and for others in no. 50). Women singers: £1370; men singers: £1030; four principal musicians (Haym, Dieupart, Pepusch, Sagione): £240 or £270; other orchestral musicians: £750 or £805; house rent: £800; house servants: £640; candles and oil: £320; dancers: £800; cost of two new operas: £1275. CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. Since we took any notice of the Theaters in our Mercuries, there has been a Revolution, with which all Lovers of Opera's are very well pleas'd. For the Masters and Performers implo'yd for the Stage, have at last prevail'd, that the House in the Hay-Market should be taken up wholly for Opera's, and that in Drury-Lane for Plays. At that in the Hay-Market, Opera's will be perform'd twice a Week for 9 Months in the Year, and Plays as usually at the Theater in Drury-Lane. Perhaps the Distance of the House in the Hay-Market from the Scene of business in the City was to its Disadvantage: For 'tis very certain, that a very good part of the Audience for Plays came from that Part of the Town, where Mr Collier's Arguments prevail'd most. As for Opera's, the Expence of that Diversion is a little too great for such as declare for exact Oeconomy; and as the Great chiefly incourage them, they are now nearer than ever to their Protectors. Before this Agreement was made, there were Divisions among the Performers, which prevented any Opera's being play'd till 'twas late in the Season: But now 'tis hop'd they will understand their mutual interest so well, as by doing Justice to one another, enable themselves the better to do Justice to the Town. The Opera has been always crowded since it has been under the present Management, and is now in a fairer way to live than ever. . . .

The New Opera's are late, but ready, and will perhaps be the more welcome, for the Delays they have met with. The Pastoral Opera, introduc'd by Signior Valentini; the Words written by Mr Motteux, will be first perform'd, and the Dido, or the Pyrrhus of Scarlatti, the next. 'Tis certain, the Former was ready several Months before either of the others; and the Musick, as we are inform'd, is more adapted to the English taste, than that of the _Pyrrhus_: which however has its Merit. But since Mr Leveridge, who introduces the _Dido_, has the good fortune to be an English-man, it may be hop'd, when he is to be judg'd by English-men, he will not be post-pon'd, unless his Musick is the Occasion of it.—We know this is no Argument in good Sense; Merit is of all Countries. But still 'tis the Argument the Italians and French make use of against the English, who are tame in nothing, so much as in the Arts, in which they are too apt to submit to their Inferiours. (_Muses Mercury_, “December” 1707)

Camilla [Swiney and Haym, adapting Bononcini]. Metius (to which are added several new Select Songs)—the famous Signior Gioseppe Cassani, lately arriv’d from Italy (and see DL, 6 December). (Daily Courant)

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. At the Desire of several Persons of Quality. . . . With several new Entertainments of Dancing by Monsieur Cherrier, Monsieur Desbar-guests, Mrs Debargues, Mrs Santlow, Mrs Evans, and others. The Boxes to be open’d to the Pit, and no Person to be admitted but by Tickets, which will be deliver’d out till this Day at Noon, at White’s Chocolate-House, at half a Guinea each Ticket. The Number of Tickets not to exceed 400. Stage Boxes half a Guinea. First Gallery 5s. Upper Gallery 2s. And by Order, no Person to stand upon the Stage.

RECEIPTS: £53 15s. 3d. (Coke Papers, no. 57). This is a startlingly low sum, especially for the first night of an exotic foreign attraction. The explanation is that tickets were sold in advance at White’s Chocolate-House for the performances of 7 and 10 February. According to Coke Papers, no. 57, £175 11s. 6d. was “Received of Mrs White for Tickets by her delivered out for Camilla when Seignor Cassani Sung.”

COMMENT. In the Daily Courant of 4 and 5 February tickets for Pit and Boxes are priced at a Guinea and the number of tickets is not to exceed 450.

Cassani—an expensive new castrato—proved a complete fiasco and apparently did not perform after 10 February. For Vanbrugh’s sour comments about his reception, see his letter to Coke of 14 May.

Irene; or, The Fair Greek [Charles Goring]. Cast not advertised (but see below). (Daily Courant)

FIRST EDITION. Irene; or, the Fair Greek, A Tragedy. As it is Acted at the Theatre Royal in Drury-Lane, By Her Majesty’s Sworn Servants (London: John Bayley, 1708). Copy used: Readex. Dramatic Personae: Mahomet the Great—Powell; Ibrahim Bassa—Smith; Acmet Bassa—Keen; Mustapha—Corey; Balbanus—Booth; Aratus—Mills; Pyrrhus—Husband; // Sultana Valide—Mrs Barry; Irene—Mrs Rogers; Zaida—Mrs Porter. Prologue Spoken by Mr Powell. Epilogue Spoken by Mrs Porter. Publication on 21 February was advertised in the Daily Courant of 23 February, with the comment that the play is “Dedicated to the Duke of Beaufort by Charles Goring, Esq.”

Dedication to Henry, Duke of Beaufort, Marquis and Earl of Worcester, Earl of Glamorgan, Baron Herbert, and Lord of Chepshow, Ragland and Gower. This Play was the Product of some Leisure Hours in the University, when I had the Honour to be a Member of one of the best Societies in it. And tho’ it has lain for some Years neglected by me, on the Reviewing of it, I found something in the Story very Entertaining to my self, and that met with the Approbation of much better Judges. The Town has given Variety of Fathers to this Play, and are willing to allow any One but My self the Author of it. I am not asham’d to own, how much I have been oblig’d to the Assistance of my Friends: But I should scarce presume to make Present of this Nature to Your Grace, that belongs to another Man.

I am sensible, My Lord, that Irene appear’d to the greatest Disadvantage on the Stage, strip’d of her Ornaments of Musick by a Superior Order; and in many of Her Characters suffering very much in the Action: But I do not mention this so much on my own Account, as that the Town was depriv’d of one of the more agreeable Parts of the Entertainment I desir’d for it.

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. Never Acted before. . . . All the Parts to be perform’d to the best Advantage.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. There has been a Tragedy acted, call’d Irene, or the Fair Greek. The Story is taken from the Turkish History. The Success of it was not very encouraging. (Muses Mercury, “January” 1708)

THE REHEARSAL [Buckingham]. Bayes—Estcourt. To which will be added Mr Bayes’s Practice of an Interlude call’d, ‡ PRUNELLA [Richard Estcourt]; done from the Italian. Mr Ayres—Estcourt. (Daily Courant)

FIRST EDITION. Prunella: An Interlude Perform’d in the Rehearsal, at the Theatre-Royal in Drury-Lane. The Sense and Musick collected from the most Famous Masters. By Mr Airs, for the Advantage of Mr Estcourt (London: Bernard Lintott, n.d. [1708]). A “Note” at the bottom of the title page says “That an Opera, of which this is but a Part, will be soon finished and printed, with a Prologue and Epilogue; and a Preface in Praise of the Fineness and Delicacy of Operas, and the Difference between an Italian Opera and an Opera in Italy.” No such work was published or performed. The Dramatis Personæ lists such characters as Racino (A Grocer in the Piazza in Conventino Hortensi), Macia (An Housewifely Body his Spouse), and Prunella (Young and handsome, something given to Love, and for it turn’d out of Doors), but no actors’ names. No prologue or epilogue. (Copy used: Readex.)

Preface: After the Travestie of Virgil, one wou’d hardly think it necessary to make an Excuse for this inconsiderable Affair to Night. I must own I attempt not to invade or abuse anyones Diversion, and cou’d wish that my Profession, which happens to be Speaking, wou’d afford that I shou’d like no speaking better: Tho’ I must confess, If I am run away with by an Air over Night, the Nervous Sense and admirable Reason it is fraught with, brings me back again in the Morning. I hope, Gentlemen, there’s no harm done, since you have the same fine Musick, and will be a little merrier into the Bargain. (Signed, R. Estcourt.)

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. For the benefit of Mr Estcourt. . . . And at the request of many of the Nobility (who have taken Tickets) 2 Benches of the Pit will be Rail’d in, for more Conveniency. And to prevent any Disappointment, by coming late, ‘tis desir’d that their Servants may be sent by 2 a Clock with the Tickets to keep Places.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. Mr Estcourt, who is so well known for his Action in Comedy, presented the Town not long since with a sort of Mask, which he nam’d Prunella, a burlesque Poem. The Airs and recitative Musick were taken from some Famous Opera’s; which however are heard with as much Pleasure as ever. (Muses Mercury, “January” 1708)

COMMENT. For discussion of Estcourt’s short-lived afterpiece spoof, see Fiske, pp. 49-50. The airs were sung to popular tunes from Arsinoe, Camilla, and Thomyris, apparently strung together with adapted recitative.

“A Prologue for Estcourt’s Benefit Day” (“To make a Prologue, we’ve two Seasons chose”) was printed in Durfey’s Songs Compleat (1719) and other later collections. Danchin (I, 400-402) reprints it with the plausible suggestion that it was written for this occasion. The speakers were Pinkethman and Leigh.

RECEIPTS: £125 15s. 6d. (Coke Papers, no. 57).

COMMENT. To judge from Vanbrugh’s comments of 14 May (see below) Cassani was removed from the cast of Camilla after 10 February. Ramondon probably resumed the role (in English?). Whether the additional songs added for Cassani were retained cannot be determined.

Saturday 21

DOCUMENT. On this day Vanbrugh sent Coke a copy of a proposal for an opera subsidy by the Queen. He suggested that she provide £1000 per annum, which would permit him to hire Nicolini and Santini [Santa Stella, later Lotti (“La Santini”)] for £400 each, and Mancini as “Master of the or- chestre” for £200.

COMMENT. For full transcription and analysis, see the Coke Papers, no. 53. For Vanbrugh’s further efforts to arrange a royal subsidy, see his letter to Coke of ca. mid-April 1708. In the event, not only was no subsidy obtained, but Nicolini was to be twice as expensive as Vanbrugh estimated. For the identity of Santini, see Opera Grove, IV, 537. She was one of the foremost Italian singers of her generation. We have found no evidence to substantiate Opera Grove’s suggestion that she “may . . . have appeared in London as prima donna in 1709.”

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester: At last I got the Duke of Marlborough to put an end to the Playhouse Factions, by engaging the Queen to exert her Authority, by means of which, the Actors are all put under the Patent at Coventgarden House [i.e., Drury Lane theatre], And the Operas are Establish’d at the Haymarket, to the generall likeing of the whole towne; And both go on in a very Successfull manner; without disturbing one an Other. This Settlement pleases so well, that people are now eager to See Operas carry’d to a great perfection, And in Order to it the Towne crys out for A Man and Woman of the First Rate to be got against Next Winter from Italy. But at the Same time they declare for the future against Subscriptions, and have not come into any this Winter. I have threfore (with Severall to back me) laid before my Lord Marlborough the necessity there is for the Queen to be at Some Expence, And have such an Answer both from him and my Lord Treasurer, as makes me write this Letter to your Lordship, to Acquaint you, that if Nicolini and Santini will come Over (my Lord Halifax telling me this morning your Lordship very much desired they shou’d) I’ll venture as far as A thousand Pounds between ’em, to be either divided equally, or More to One and less to tother as your Lordship shall think fitt to adjust it with ’em, if you please to give your Self the trouble of making the Agreement. This Money I propose to give ’em for Singing during the Next Season, which as things are now Regulated begins the Tenth of September, and ends the Tenth of June. The Opera is very rarely perform’d above twice a Week, and in the beginning and latter part of the Season, not above One, so that their Labour won’t be great. If your Lordship cou’d engage ’em for Pistolls or Louis d’ores instead of Pounds, ‘twould be so much Saved to two of your humble Undertakers of the Opera, for I have Bought Mr Swiney quite out: Only pay him as Manager. . . . Valentini is mighty earnest with me to get Nicolini over tho’ he knows he so much exceeds him; but he wou’d fain See Opera flourish here, and is mightely pleas’d with the Civill Treatment he meets with. (Vanbrugh, Works, IV, 16-17)

FIRST EDITION. Love’s Triumph. An Opera. As it is Perform’d at the Queen’s Theatre in the Hay-Market. By P. Motteux (London: Jacob Tonson, 1708). Copy used: British Library 162.k.36. The Persons Represented. Liso—Valentino, who sings in Italian; Olindo—Signiora Margarita de L’Epine; Neralbo—Leveridge // Licisca—Mrs Tofts; Eurilla—The Baroness; Serpetta—Mrs Lindsey. (The text is in English, with Liso’s part given in both English and Italian.)

Dedication by Motteux to P. Frankland: The Words adapted to the Music of this Opera, that entertain’d You in Italy, were written very near You. . . . Three of the greatest Composers have each set an Act of it. I have endeavour’d to make it acceptable to a British Audience: And tho’ I may say, the comic Part is wholly New (and most of the more serious Scenes) I would have alter’d more, had it been in my Power, without changing the Disposition of the Airs, which is still the same. Such as it is, ‘twas not easy to give the whole a genteel Turn, without changing the Cast; to mix a little Humor, without being loose or too low; and, in short, to keep Sense and Sound together. . . . To fit Words to a Tune, may seem as odd as to fit a Horse to a Saddle, tho’ such a thing may be done upon Occasion. . . . I hope Singing will not get the better of Speaking upon the British Stage. There does not seem to be so great Care taken, that the Words may not be a disgrace to good Music, nor to have ‘em plainly utter’d, understood, and properly acted with Spirit, as in other Nations. . . . Fine Singing, like a fine Woman, should have the Beauties of the Mind, to engage a lasting Affection. . . . And if it [this opera] makes a better Appearance [than its predecessors], it will not owe a little to Mr Dieupart, for his Share in the Contrivance of the Entertainments, and his supplying what Recitative and other Music was necessary.

Songs in the new Opera, Call’d Love’s Triumph, engraved by Walsh and Hare, were advertised in the Daily Courant on 28 April 1708. It included 68 songs. See Hunter, nos. 46 and 47.

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. Never perform’d before. . . . The Dances, Chorus’s, and other Entertainments being properly introduc’d as on Foreign Stages. No Person to be admitted but by Tickets, which will be deliver’d out by the Box Keepers at half a Guinea each Ticket. The Number of Tickets not to exceed 400. Note, That a Box-Keeper will attend every Day from 9 a Clock in the Morning till 1 in the Afternoon, at the Office in the Great Piazza going into the Play-House to deliver out Tickets. Boxes upon the Stage half a Guinea, First Gallery 5s. Upper Gallery 2s. 6d.

RECEIPTS: £240 6s. 9d. (Coke Papers, no. 57).

COMMENT. According to the Coke Papers, no. 50, Valentini was paid 100 guineas for supplying this opera or the music for it, and Coke Papers, no. 54, proves that Motteux received £53 15s. on 6 March as payment in full for his work in creating or translating the English text.

The reception appears to have been mixed. For commentary, see the Muses Mercury, quoted below under early March. Publication of the libretto was advertised in the Daily Courant of 27 February. On 28 April the same paper carried an ad from Walsh, Hare, and Randal for the music: “New Musick this Day publish’d, The 2d and 3d Acts of the last new Opera call’d Love’s Triumph; which together with the 1st contains all the Songs Ariets and Duets in that Opera, all fairly Engraven.”

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. Tho we have said very little in our Mercuries lately of the Stage, yet we have omitted nothing remarkable. There has been little done there that was new, and every thing else wou’d be impertinent. The Pastoral Opera which we have often mentioned has been perform’d. ‘Tis call’d Love’s Triumph: The Words were written by Mr Motteux, and the Musick is Italian, by several Masters. We shall not pretend to determine whether it has succeeded or not: For if it has not been lik’d by some; ‘tis certain, it has been by others. The Dido of Scarlati will probably be the next this Season, if it is not too far advanc’d. . . . the other Tragedies mention’d in our former Collections are in no great Forwardness, and we hear of no other. DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester: I had written to your Lordship [see 24 February] a little before I rec’d your Letter to desire you wou’d engage Nicolini & Santini for Next Winter, if a Thousand Pistols, (or Pounds if Pistols wou’d not do) between them wou’d be Sufficient, which My Lord Dorset tells me is from the 10th of September to the 10th of June. So that they must if Possible be here in August. Unless to have the Advantage of coming with your Lordship, they shou’d stay something longer, which in that Case, to encourage ‘em, one wou’d dispence with. Now cou’d there be a Third, some Young Agreeable Person of a Woman, who not yet in great Vogue, yet promis’d fair to grow to it who wou’d come for an Allowance of 80. or 100 pounds a year, it might be of great Service to bring downe the Pride & Charge of Our Present Singing Ladys, who Cost the House four hundred pounds a Year apace. Stanhope tells me of Such a One at Leghorn, that he believes wou’d Come. Her Name is Redjana. He commends her extreamly. (Vanbrugh, Works, IV, 18-19)

COMMENT: Dean and Knapp, p. 146n, suggest that “Redjana” is “perhaps Giovanna Albertini detta la Reggiana, who sang at Venice in 1708-9.” This identification seems highly plausible.

COMMENT. Bucholz, Augustan Court, Tables 7.4 and 7.5, deduces that Gasperini's sonata was composed for Prince George's birthday, but no record of the occasion has come to light except this advertisement. Bucholz notes Vanbrugh's letter of 11 May (Coke Papers, p. 107) which mentions a plan for bi-weekly concerts in the Apartments. By implication, Prince George's birthday was such an occasion.

PASSION WEEK

Wednesday 31
DL

DOCUMENT. On this day Henry Brett signed a management agreement with Wilks, Cibber, and Estcourt. The whereabouts of the original MS (if extant) are not known to us, but what appears to be a virtually complete transcription is printed as an appendix by Fitzgerald (II, 443-446). The crucial provisions are as follows. Brett’s full rights and powers are granted to the three actors, who will have the power to set salaries, assess fines, and make production decisions. No expenditure in excess of 40s. in one week is allowed unless agreed on by all three of them. In future seasons, benefit arrangements will be altered. Each actor must deposit £40 with the treasurer in advance. Any actor with a benefit whose weekly salary is under £4 will be required to contribute one-quarter of the clear benefit profits to management; the tax rises to one-third for people with salaries under 50s. per week; to one-half for people with salaries under 40s. per week. No benefit is to be permitted until the last week of February, and no more than one per week until the month of May. Brett's grant is revocable at any time.

COMMENT. Though the actor-managers had agreed to this arrangement, Christopher Rich’s attempt to enforce it the following season led to the silencing of the theatre.

DOCUMENT. If seignor Valentini, Mrs Tofts, Mlle Margarita Mr Dieupart, Mr Hayms & Mr Papusch come into shares instead of salarys; The daily Charge (Cloaths &c excepted which must be furnish’d by subscription) may be reduc’d to £70 per day. The receipts this season have amounted to £125 per day, one day with an other. But shou’d the Receipts next year rise to but £115 the Profits wou’d then be £45 per day. Two thirds of which going to the Performing sharers, vizt £30, each share wou’d be worth £450—dividing their £30 per day in four parts: one to Vallentini, one to Mrs Tofts, one to Margarita de l’Epine, & one divided in 3 between the men. (See Coke Papers, no. 63.)

COMMENT. Vanbrugh was desperately searching for a way to stabilize the finances of his opera company. This profit-sharing proposal for the season of 1708-09 was clearly not welcomed by the performers, who must have realized that it would leave them with incomes dependent on hypothetical profits. In essence, Vanbrugh was proposing to make Valentini, Tofts, de l’Epine, and the three senior musicians limited partners in profits, reserving one-third to himself. By this time Vanbrugh was grasping at straws, dreaming that subsidy could be blandished out of the Queen (see next entry), and looking at foreign models of subscription schemes. Coke Papers no. 67 is labelled “Plan for ye opera for ye next year 1708/9” and consists of a calculation of annual income derived from season subscribers on the plan of “The Opera att Venice”—a sum calculated at £3225.

ca. mid-April

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to Coke: I found a letter from you last night. I hope you will not doubt of my Entire disposition to comply with whatever you think right in this unhappy affair as far as the stretch of my power will go and I will accordingly make a very hard shift to clear Valentinos second month; but must beg a little time for the Tother. For really tis not yet in my power. You are Sensible the daily Receipts of the Opera are not near sufficient to answer the Daily and monthly demands and whenever they fail, there will be a full Stop: So that I am forc’d to apply all other money I have, to keep touch in that point and this Distresses me to the last Degree, All kinds of income being very backwards. However I hope to receive very suddenly a large arrear out of which I will certainly make good all you have promisd I shall: But methinks if ever my Lord Chamberlain will move the Queen, now should be the time, since he can never be furnishd with more pressing arguments: amongst which, that of the impossibility the House at present is under, to make good the Bargains made with Foreigners, woud move both the Queen and my Lord Treasurer more than one cou’d plead: Besides, the Venetian Ambassador was by at My Lord Chamberlain when both my Lord Treasurer & Marlborough Declard it woud be right, for the Queen to give a Thousand Pounds a year towards the opera support, and Ill lay my Life she comes readily into it whenever she is apply’d to which I therefore earnestly beg you will press my Lord Chamberlain to do, And when he has once (as the proper officer) movd the Queen in it I’ll take the trouble off of his hands to solicit it. . . . (Coke Papers, no. 64)

COMMENT. Nothing was to come of Vanbrugh’s pipe-dream of financial rescue by the Queen.

ADVERTISEMENT. Epsom. During the Summer Season, for the Entertainment of the Nobility and Gentry, Mr Powell, one of her Majesty's Sworn Servants, will have a Company of Actors; and he himself, with several others of her Majesty's Servants, will perform there. (Daily Courant)

The Cit to Epsom brings that Chain of Life,
That sawcy, scolding Termagant, his Wife . . . .
He haunts the Walks, the Coffee-house, and Green . . . .
Little Regards his dear dissembling Punk;
Who, to the crowded Play-house, 'mongst the Beaus, Resorts, or else to New Spring-Garden goes:
For here the famous Roscius of the Age, [author's note: Powell]
In tragick Buskins treads the rural Stage.
The ancient Bards in long lost Plays revive,
And by their Wit, th' industrious Actors thrive.
Each conscious Scene th'am'rous Jilt admires,
And in her Bosom, feels extinguish'd Fires.
For some loose Actor's brawny Back she burns,
Is lewd again, and her hot Fit returns.
Gods! how she praises Valentinian's Shape,
And sighing, wishes chast Lucina's Rape!
With what fierce Joys could she Antonio meet, [in The Libertine]
Was he not quite so lewd, and more discreet!
For bold Almanzor's Strength the Wanton dies,
And views his Action with desiring Eyes.

THE TRUE AND ANCIENT STORY OF MAUDLIN THE MERCHANT’S DAUGHTER [anon.; lost]. This title is known from a handbill preserved in British Library Harleian MS 5931; see J. Bagford, “A Collection of Title Pages and Fragments of Printed Books,” BL pressmark N.L.4.c. Transcribed in Smith, “Collections,” Vol. IX, fol. 52r. “At the New Play house in May Fair. During the time of the Fair will be Play'd, the true and ancient story of Maudlin the Merchant’s daughter of Bristol, and her lover Antonio. How they were cast away in a tempest upon the coast of Barbary; where the Mermaids were seen floating on the seas, and singing on the rocks foretelling their danger. The Droll intermingled with most delightful merry comedy, after the manner of an Opera, with extraordinary variety of singing and Dancing: By his grace the Duke of Southampton’s Servants. The place will be known by the balcone adorn'd with blue pillars twisted with flowers. Vivat Regina.”

COMMENT. No date is given, but Rosenfeld, Theatre of the London Fairs, pp. 111-112, suggests 1708, a highly plausible date in view of the reference to operas and the suppression of play booths at May Fair after this year.

THE DEVIL UPON TWO STICKS [anon. adaptation; lost]. This performance at Pinkethman’s booth is known from publication of an eight-page pamphlet, The Devil upon two Sticks: or, the Town Until’d: With the Comical Humours of Don Stulto, and Seignior Jingo: As it is Acted in Pinkeman’s Booth in May-Fair (London: Printed by J.R. near Fleet-street, 1708). Copy used: British Library 1076.l.22 [25]).

COMMENT. The pamphlet is merely a prose synopsis of Le Sage’s Le Diable Boîteux, not a script or scenario for Pinkethman’s droll.

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester: What your Lordship says of having one or two of the Top Voices, is most certainly right; As to my Self; I have parted with my whole concern to Mr Swiney; only reserving my Rent: So that he is entire Possessor of the Opera. And most People think, will manage it better than any body. He has a good deal of money in his Pocket; that he got before by the Acting Company; And is willing to Venture it upon the Singers. I have been severall times with him lately in Consultation with the Vice Chamberlain Coke, (who being a great Lover of Musique And promoter of Operas; My Lord Chamberlain leaves that Matter almost entirely to him). I have Acquainted him with what your Lordship writes; And Mr Swiney has engag’d before him, to Allow a Thousand pounds for Nicolini, to stay here two Winters; That is, to be here in September: And at Liberty to go away again the May come twelve month after. A thousand pounds, I think makes about 1200 Pistols; which undoubtedly he may Carry away clear in his Pocket; for he can’t fail of Advantages otherways Sufficient to defray his Expences over and over. As for Santini Mr Swiney offers the same Conditions to Her, if your Lordship can prevail with her to come; Or if She won’t, and you think Rejiana [Redjana—i.e., Giovanna Albertini?] wou’d do as well, he leaves it to your Judgment, and will Allow her the Same, If neither of these Women will come He wou'd venture at half this Allowance, Vitz: 600 Pistolls or Something more, as your Lordship shall think reasonable) for the two Winters, if a Young, improving Woman cou'd be found that had a good Person and Action, and that might be esteem'd as good a Singer as Margarita [de l'Epine]. If your Lordship can get any of these People over, on the Terms here Mention'd, Mr Swiney desires me to assure you of punctuall performance on his Part; Nor is there any reason to doubt him; for he has behav'd himself so as to get great Credit in his dealings with the actors. And I know the Vice-Chamberlain do's not the least Question his making good all he Offers on this Occasion; Besides, he has Power Sufficient to Oblige him to it, the License being only during the Queens Pleasure. I have not yet had an Opportunity to discourse My Lady Marlborough, about your Lordships proposition to her for Manza [i.e., the composer Luigi Mancia]. But I find no Disposition at all in Other People to promote his Coming at any great Expence; And by a Letter Mr Dayrolls has sent me from him, I find he expects 600 Guineas a Year, which is not to be thought on. 'Tis Voices are the things at present to be got: And if these Top ones come over, 'twill facilitate bringing the Queen into a Scheme, now preparing by my Lord Chamberlain and Others, to have Concerts of Musick in the Summer at Windsor, twice a Week in the Appartment. There is no doubt, but by some such way as this, if the best Singers come, they will tast of the Queens bounty: for every body will Solicite for 'em that they may go away Content, and encourage Others to come over hereafter: So that I hope upon the Whole, your Lordship will be of Opinion, you may Safely perswade a Couple of 'em to Undertake the Voyage: for 'tis most Certain the People of Quality will find some means or Other, to send 'em home in good humour. I must give your Lordship one Caution by the Way: which is; That I have good reason to believe that Valentini (tho' he pretends to wish for Nicolini's Coming) will underhand do all he can to discourage him for he has link'd himself with Mrs Tofts (who is wonderfully improv'd) And in order to make a great bargain for themselves for next Winter, will certainly play some trick, to hinder both Nicolini and a Woman from coming over; if your Lordship don't Apprise 'em ont. (Vanbrugh, Works, IV, 20-21)

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to Coke: I am forc'd to be gone for Blenheim, without time to wait on you But do in all I can Comply with what your Letter desires. I had before I rec'd it made up the Accounts, and with much difficulty given Mr Swiny money to pay the Balance to All the Singers & Dancers except Val: [Valentini] Margt: [Margarita de l'Epine] and Mrs Sagioni [Maria Gallia]: which Account he will wait upon you with and shew you. I believe there is nobody dissatisfy'd with it but she who has the least reason: I mean the Barroness, she never came to any Agreement at all, and she is paid for every time the Opera has been perform'd in Proportion to what you thought was reasonable to allow her: which has satisfi'd even Mrs Tofts & every body Else. Mrs Sagioni shall have her Twenty pounds to morrow. Val: has had half this last month advanc'd to him long ago, tho' his day did not produce it, and I have let him know he shall have the other half as soon as Mr Bertie comes to Towne which will be the end of next Week. The rest will be provided for him I hope, by the time 'twill be due. Mr Dieupart and Seignor Berti will likewise soon be taken care of: but what to do about Cassani I don't well know, though something shall: not that I really think he has a Claim to almost any thing; for take the two Audiences together and they were a great deal short of what has been rec'd on Common Occasions, And there was an Expence of near £30 for his Cloaths; with a Cruell Clamour & Disgust of the Towne against the House for Imposing such a Singer: which gave the Opera a very mischievous shock. I therfore think charity is his chief Plea, which is of full as much force to the Lords who seem’d to Patronize him as to me who am so Vast a Sufferer by this Years Adventure. I shall be out of Towne but about ten days; what I am able to do, (either by my self or others for him at my return) I will; And Mr Swiny will in the Interim, lend him something to keep him from Distress. I must upon the whole, beg you to believe, That on any of these Occasions, ‘tis my nature & my principle to overdoe, rather than leave the least pretence for Complaint. But I am so hard run in this unhappy Business, that there is no room left for Generosity; If I can at least comply with what in rigour I ought, ‘tis the utmost I can hope for, I therfore beg you will have a favourable opinion of my Intentions in all these Struggles; And if in any particular I come something short of what you think shou’d be; lay it to my want of Power to do better; for as far as that will reach, I will readily be determin’d by you; having all the reason in the World to declare my self satisfy’d with your whole procedure in this thing, and very much Oblig’d for the perpetuall trouble you have been so willing to give your self about it. . . . (For complete transcription, annotation, and analysis, see the Coke Papers, no. 70.)

COMMENT. Coke was evidently being pressed by unhappy performers to squeeze out of Vanbrugh whatever could be got. Coke Papers no. 69 is a letter (in French) from Valentini to Coke dated 13 May begging his assistance in getting Vanbrugh to pay “the rest of my money of 150 guineas within the month of May as we had agreed” (our translation). The Cassani problem dragged on over the summer. On 8 September 1708 Nicola Haym responded to a query from Coke (sent 4 September) with an obsequious letter in Italian and an itemized list of the debts run up by Cassani—travel expenses, clothes, wigs, small loans that must be repaid, etc., to a total of £86 19s. 9d. See the Coke Papers, no. 72, for full transcription, translation, and analysis.

COMMENT. An undated letter from Margaret Farquhar (widow of the playwright) to Coke probably pertains to the house charges for this performance: “The exaction of the play house makes me very uneasy but hope through your authority and goodness it may be greatly Qualifyd, I have made a through search into ye rates and am well assurd that poor Mr farquhar allowed 35 for the Charges of the house tho he was promised by Mr Swinney who was ther [sic] manager of the new playe house that he should have it free. Mr Wilks did then justify the same to Dr Shadwell who acquinting my Lord Chamberlain therewith, who orderd him another benifitt day but thro mismanagement it provd of no advantage to him [see 29 April 1707], the players I understand usually allowd 40 for their benifit play but stil I hope thro your powerfull mediation it may be reducd to a much less sume, for ye Cheif actors I presume may be easily prevaild to quett their own charges upon Mr farquhars account who has bin so Serviceable to them.” For full transcription and analysis, see the Coke Papers, no. 68.

DOCUMENT: On this day the Court of Common Council issued an order (replete with moral justifications) “that for the future” Bartholomew Fair “shall be kept Three Days only, and no longer.” The full order is printed an appendix to Reasons . . . for the Punctual Limiting of Bartholomew Fair to . . . Three Days (London: no publisher, 1711), pp. 23-30. (Copy used: Guildhall Pam. 4835.) The order may not altogether have settled the mat-ner, since about a month later “divers citizens and Inhabitants in and near West Smithfield” complained to the Lord Mayor, Aldermen, and Common Council of London that Bartholomew Fair “is become a mere riotous and tumultuous Assembly” devoted to “Shews . . . and lewd Courses” and requesting that the recent order restricting it to three days be upheld in the face of opposition (dated 1 July 1708). The petition is printed in ibid., pp.
31-32.

CONTEMPORARY COMMENT. The Observator devoted parts of two issues (26-30 June and 30 June-3 July) to praising the ban on plays, denouncing those who opposed it, and protesting against the debasement of the purposes of the Fair by the addition of popular entertainments. The Rehearsal of 7 August 1708 agreed that limiting the time of the fair and banning plays were important steps toward “Reformation,” but sharply criticized the Observator’s attack on the trustees of St Bartholomew’s Hospital for trying to extend the term of the fair in order to increase the hospital’s profits.
The Observator replied indignantly (7-11 August) that it “had no Design to damage
St Bartholomew’s Hospital, by writing against the lewd Practices of Bartholomew-Fair.”

FIRST EDITION. The Maid the Mistress. A Comedy. As it is Acted at the Theatre
Royal, by Her Majesty’s Servants (London: E. Sanger and E. Curll, 1708). Copy used:
Readex. Dramatis Personæ: Sir David Fancy—Johnson; Beauford—Powell; Gaylove—
Mills; Squire Empty—Bullock; Roger—Norris; Nicholas—Bright // Lady Fancy—Mrs Knight; Harriot—Mrs Bradshaw; Charlot—Mrs Bicknell. Prologue. A Prologue de-sign’d to be spoke at Christmas last, this Play being then in Rehearsal. Epilogue.
[Danchin (I, 405-407) deduces from the text that Mrs Knight spoke the epilogue.]
Publication was advertised in the Daily Courant of 24 June.

To the Reader. The following Scenes were writ as much for my own Diversion as they prov’d to the Town’s. Of this there needs no other Evidence than the Reception they had, in a Season in which another Dryden might have talk’d to bare Benches.
. . . As I never design to bring again on the Stage any more of my Scribbling, I add not Asseverations which always carry with them an Air rather of Passion than Reason.
The Merits of this Play I know are not great, nay, I am sensible there are wanting two of the brightest Characteristicks of Modern Comedy (Lewd Plot and Luscious Dialogue:) However, without either of these it has had the good Fortune to Divert, and I hope instruct. . . .

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. Never Acted before.

COMMENT. The title as given on B1r is The Disappointment: or, the Maid's the Mistress.

July 1708

c. July

DOCUMENT. About this time Owen Swiney wrote a letter to Coke, enclosing his (revised?) proposals to Nicolini for 1708-09. He added two postscripts: “If you please to let me know when I may have leave to wait upon you I have a great deal to say concerning the right methods of bringing Rich &c to reason. The muscovite Princes being gone I hope youl not think it troublesome to enquire how I must apply for the money for their Box.” (Full transcription and commentary in the Coke Papers, no. 71.)

COMMENT. Nicolini’s terms for 1708-09 are not known, but were probably similar to those he was offered in the spring of 1709 for the seasons following. See ca. April 1709. The first postscript implies either continuing friction between the theatres or (more probably) disagreements between Rich and his actors. As a former manager for Rich, Swiney knew a good deal about how to handle him. The second postscript implies that the Queen paid for an opera box for the visiting Russian ambassador during his stay in London. About a year later (8 July 1709) a warrant was drawn for £89 12s 9d “To Mr Owen Swinny for the use of a box in the Theatre in the Haymarket for the said Princes” (LC 3/53, fol. 71). On the same day the government agreed to pay a bill of £29 9s 6d for the Russians’ use of a box at Drury Lane. An authorization for these warrants is in LC 5/154, p. 421 (12 May 1709). Record of the payments appears in accounts dated 11 November 1709 and 10 October 1711. See Document Register, nos. 2028, 2029, 2056, and 2155.

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester: I lost so Much Money by the Opera this Last Winter, that I was glad to get quit of it; And yet I don't doubt but Operas will Settle and thrive in London. The Occasion of the Loss was three things, One; that half the Season was past before the Establishment was made. And then, My Lord Chamberlain Upon a Supposition that there wou'd be Immence gain, Oblig'd us to Extravagant Allowances; An Other thing was, That the Towne having the Same Notion of the Profits, wou'd not come into Any Subscription; And the 3d was, That tho' the Pitt and Boxes did very near as well as usuall the Gallery People (who hitherto had only throng'd out of Curiositie, not Tast) were weary of the Entertainament: so that Upon the Whole, there was barely Money to Pay the Performers & Other daily Charges; And for the Cloaths & Scenes they fell upon the Undertakers. I might Add a Fourth Reason which is, That I never cou'd look after it my Self, but was forc'd to Leave it to Managers. Mr Swiney has now Undertaken it himself, And I believe will go through with it very well. Nor will he want Subscriptions to help him; I don't doubt but Nicolini will be mighty well rec'd, And find his Account, And if once a Peace Comes, there will be many things to Support Musick which Are wanting Now... My Lord Chamberlain [Kent] is in a Tottering way, I know he expects to be out which he has not a mind to. (Vanbrugh, Works, IV, 24-25)

COMMENT. Kent was not actually supplanted as Lord Chamberlain until April 1710.

(Daily Courant)

ADVERTISEMENT DETAILS. With an Epilogue spoke by Mr Norris to his Brother Saleware's of the City. (Danchin, I, 407, notes that this was the original epilogue of February 1677.)

COMMENT. The subtitle from Massinger notwithstanding, the list of characters proves that this was a revival of Aphra Behn's The Debauchee, or The Credulous Cuckold (1677), an adaptation of Brome's A Mad Couple Well Matched (1639).

Tuesday 17

DOCUMENT. Vanbrugh to the Earl of Manchester: I doubt the Composer your Lordship Speaks of bringing won't turn to Account neither to the Opera nor himself For People will never believe him good, unless they had heard of him, as a most Famous Man; besides there are So many Operas now in being, which are translated ready to be performed, that there will be no want of New Compositions in Many Years. But if your Lordship brought a perfect good Violin to Lead & Govern the Orcastré, ‘twou'd be of great Service.
Nicolini that belong’d to the Duke of Bedford & is now at Rome, is thought by the Skillfull here, to be as good as any in Europe for that particular Service. I hope Nicolini the Singer continues his Resolution, for they have cast all their Affairs depending on his Coming And ‘tis absolutely Necessary he shou’d be here as soon as possible or the best part of the Season will be lost. (Vanbrugh, Works, IV, 26)

COMMENT. *A Long Vacation Prologue. Writ by Mr B--k--r [Baker]; and spoke by Mr Es----t [Estcourt] at the Theatre Royal in Drury-Lane (elaborately annotated) was published in broadside (London: J. Morphew, 1708). It was first reprinted and analyzed by Emmett L. Avery in “Some New Prologues and Epilogues, 1704-1708,” SEL, 5 (1965), 464-467, and has been reprinted with further analysis by Danchin, I, 410-413. The prologue complains bitterly about Christopher Rich and the union of the companies, and reports that Powell, Leigh, Norris, and Carnaby have gone off to act at Epsom, while Wilks, Mills, Booth, Doggett, Pack, Mrs Barry, Mrs Porter, Mrs Kent, and Mrs Mills have been invited to perform in luxurious circumstances in a private theatre at the home of “N–r–n” (i.e., Richard Norton, Esq., of Southwick, Hampshire). A letter from John Dennis to Norton, dated 10 August and sent via Barton Booth, suggests that Booth went to Southwick on 10 August or soon thereafter (Dennis, Original Letters, I, 115-118). “A Prologue to Cajus Marius Acted at Southwick House” in Bodleian MS Rawl. poet 129, fol. 7, suggests that Otway’s tragedy was among the plays acted for Norton at this time. The prologue is printed by Danchin, I, 408-409. The “Long Vacation Prologue” concludes with a plea that Norton buy the patent and make a gift of it to the actors, who are desirous of “Constant Pay.”*
